Thousands Dead in East Pakistan as Cyclone Hits Coast

News Agency Reports Total May Far Exceed 2,000

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — The Pakistani government rushed relief teams and supplies today to the cyclone-devastated coast of East Pakistan where many thousands were reported dead.

The Pakistani News Agency reported that 2,000 persons were killed but other reports said the death toll was much higher. The cyclone's twisting 100-mile-an-hour winds, followed by a 12-foot tidal wave and heavy rains, devastated crops and villages.

The governor of East Pakistan flew from Dacca to Chittagong to direct relief operations.

The cyclone started in the Bay of Bengal, which is formed by India, East Pakistan and Burma. The storm hit at Cox's Bazar, moved up the coast through Chittagong, about 200 miles east of Calcutta and then blew itself out as it moved northeast.

Search for Survivors

Naval units searched for survivors on the many small islands dotting the coast. Two hundred deep - sea fishermen were reported missing off Sonadia Island.

Persons reaching Chittagong from Cox's Bazar, 80 miles down the coast, said they saw scattered bodies. The news agency said the British ship Star Pink picked up five survivors in the Bay of Bengal Wednesday.

Details of the devastation on the islands were sketchy because communications were cut with the mainland port of Chittagong.

Hundreds Homeless

Hundreds were homeless, and 60 per cent of the houses were wrecked in Cox's Bazar, which has a population of about 6,000. The airfield was reported under a foot of water.

Unofficial reports said thousands of persons perished on Maheshkhali Island. The cyclone reportedly destroyed 75 per cent of Sonadia's crops and houses. A great loss of livestock was feared on other islands.

It was the area's eighth cyclone disaster in recent years. The last one killed 1,700 persons in the Chittagong district last May.

LBJ, Wilson Meet Again On Big Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson meet again today, their attention believed focused on four issues.

Reportedly high on the list for their discussions are the Rhodesian declaration of independence from Britain, the sharing of nuclear arms with the Atlantic Alliance, proposed British defense cutbacks and disarmament.

The two men met privately for an hour Thursday, then were joined by advisers for another 40 minutes.

Americans sitting in were presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy; Undersecretary of State George W. Ball; David K. E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to London, and Francis Bator, deputy special assistant to the President.

Gemini 6 Pair Leaves Wasp For Florida

Further Debriefing At Cape Kennedy Slated for Spacemen

ABOARD USS WASP (AP) — Astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford left the Wasp today en route to Bermuda and Cape Kennedy, Fla., for further medical studies and technical debriefing.

The Gemini 6 spacemen boarded separate Navy seaplanes in the same good spirits they showed Thuprsday when they stepped from the Gemini 6 to the carrier deck.

Each flew in the copilot seats of the aircraft. They were to transfer at Bermuda to a larger plane for the flight to Cape Kennedy.

Schirra and Stafford, wearing aqua-blue coveralls, left the Wasp at 7:10 a.m. The huge vessel was 410 miles southwest of Bermuda.

Christmas Party

Schirra, a Navy captain, and Stafford, an Air Force major, radioed the Wasp Thursday while still bobbing in the Atlantic Ocean after splashdown. Permission to come aboard was quickly granted and they found a red carpet leading their way to the sick bay for preliminary medical examinations.

"Exactly what we had expected after one day," Dr. Bill Carpentier, National Aeronautics and Space Administration physician, reported, as Stafford lighted up his first cigar after the flight.

Call Home

Each pilot telephoned his wife, giving a three-minute personal account of the historic flight and rendezvous. An expected telephone call from the White House did not materialize although press scretary Bill D. Moyers said President Johnson got a personal report on the flight from NASA Administrator James E. Webb.

Later the astronauts reappeared on the Wasp hangar deck wearing light blue coveralls. They climbed back in the capsule to make a final inspection of Gemini 6 and to pose for photographers.

"It's nice to be here," Schirra said, patting the scarred and scorched heat shield of the capsule that bore the brunt of the fiery re-entry.

Dr. Howard Minners said both astronauts were in good shape. but as expected showed a slight increase in their heart rates.

Recovery Crews, Wasp Move Into Area Planned For Spacecraft's Landing

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The Gemini 7 pilots—assured that the power-producing fuel cells of their space ship would not fail them—hurtled confidently onward today to the big goal of 14 days in space.

After a night of worry over the power system, flight directors determined that it would hold up, and gave the world space endurance champions Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. a "go" for the full distance of 5,149,400 miles.

This would bring them to a landing in the Atlantic at 9.05 a.m. EST Saturday, in the same area where spacemen Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford brought the Gemini 6 down Thursday near the waiting aircraft carrier Wasp.

Straight Downhill

"There's no reason," astronaut Elliot M. See Jr. told Borman and Lovell in a statewide pass this morning, "that we shouldn't go straight on downhill from now on."

Gemini 7 entered its 193rd orbit at 10:25 a.m. EST.

The Gemini 7 astronauts were so sure of themselves that they made a bet with Schirra and Stafford during their historic rendezvous in space Wednesday that they could make a more accurate landing. Gemini 6 missed the aircraft carrier Wasp by less than 15 miles.

The stakes were not disclosed but Borman asked today for an accurate figure on the Gemini 6 splashdown point. "There's a lot riding on that," he told mission control.

Ideal weather conditions that prevailed during the Gemini 6 re-entry will continue Saturday, forecasters said.

Cautious Watch

After keeping cautious watch on the power system through the night, flight directors gave the green light for a full mission to Borman and Lovell as they soared near Bermuda.

A warning light, supposed to indicate fuel cell trouble although ground station monitors said the unit's power output was normal, flashed on Thursday. It finally flickered out about 2:20 a.m. today but started burning anew before completion of another orbit.

John D. Hodge, the overnight flight director, said the cell nevertheless would last at least 150 hours beyond the end of the scheduled 14-day mission.

"The Blue (midnight to 8 a.m. control) team is happy to give you a go-ahead," Hodge told command pilot Borman.

Splashdown Area

This sent Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell streaking on toward an intended splashdown in the area where Gemini 6 descended Thursday.

They have made a bet that they will land even closer to the aircraft carrier Wasp than the Gemini 6 pilots did Thursday after the historic rendezvous of the two spacecraft.

U. A. R. Announces Break in Relations

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic formally advised Britain today of a break in relations effective at sunset. This is the fifth African nation to sever diplomatic ties with the British over Rhodesia.

Foreign Minister Mohammed Hassan El Zayat summoned British Ambassador Sir George Middleton to advise him of the rupture. He said the step was taken because Britain had failed to take action "against the white minority government of Rhodesia."

Earlier Ghana, Tanzania, Guinea and Mali heeded the call by the Organization of African Unity for its 36 members to break with London unless the British overthrew Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian government by last Wednesday.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that four more OAU members, Nigeria, Mauritania, Senegal and the Congo Republic —Brazzaville, were also breaking with Britain. Senegal denied it would do so now, and there was no confirmation on the others.

Rhodesia's white minority government declared independence from Britain on Nov. 11 after negotiations broke down over Britain's insistence that Rhodesia's four million Africans be guaranteed ultimate control of the government. There are 220,000 whites in Rhodesia.

Britain has imposed economic sanctions against Rhodesia but refuses to use force to bring down the Smith regime. The African nations are in no position to mount a successful military operation against Rhodesia.

The U.A.R.'s decision to break surprised British diplomats in Cairo. After the OAU's deadline expired Wednesday, Egyptian officials said their government would postpone the break and backed Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie's call for another OAU conference on Dec. 21 to reconsider the matter.

Ghana and Tanzania are members of the British Commonwealth, and Tanzania appeared careful to preserve its Commonwealth ties in announcing its decision. But Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah told his cheering Parliament that his government was considering leaving the Commonwealth as well.

15 Injured as Plane Breaks Up

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A huge C97 Air Force four-engine plane broke in two as it landed at Carswell Air Force Base this morning, injuring 15 of the 20 persons aboard.

Col. Jim Gelley, director of base operations at Carswell, said the plane may have had gear trouble.

He said the plane cracked in half behind the cockpit area and one wing shattered. The injuries were described as minor.

The plane burned after the crash. The passengers and plane were attached to the Air Force Logistics Command at Carswell.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Thursday the death of a Milwaukee Marine in Viet Nam. He was Private First Class Richard J. Brunke, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Brunke.

Grenade Thrown Into Truck

Saigon Terrorism Continues As VC Marks Anniversary

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A teen-age terrorist tossed a grenade into a truckload of U.S. soldiers in Saigon today, injuring 12 GIs.

It was Saigon's fourth straight day of terrorism marking the fifth anniversary Monday of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The would-be assassin, about 15 or 16, fled in the confusion on the busy street. Only one of the Americans was seriously injured.

In North Viet Nam, Communist MIGs took to the air — but cautiously — during another day of heavy bombardment.

American pilots reported sighting seven Soviet-built MIG17s which kept a discreet distance while apparently trailing the U.S. jets. An Air Force spokesman said the American planes were too short on fuel to take on the Communist jets.

2 Planes Lost

Two U.S. planes were lost in other operations.

A Navy jet returning from a mission over North Viet Nam crashed into the ramp of the flight deck of the carrier Kitty Hawk and plunged into the sea. The pilot was presumed dead.

Enemy ground fire apparently nailed an Air Force F5 Freedom fighter jet which crashed on an attack mission 15 miles from Saigon. An Army helicopter picked up the injured pilot but he died later.

In the ground war, a Viet Cong battalion badly mauled a government company 22 miles northwest of the capital, inflicting heavy casualties. The Reds fled before a relief column came to the scene.

Express Concern

The appearance of the MIGs came after U.S. officials had expressed some concern about probes of American air preparedness by Communist jets. The Air Force did not specify the nationality of the MIGs sighted over North Viet Nam.

U.S. planes dropped 73 tons of bombs on the Communist North. Spokesmen said they hit bridges, roads and buildings in the Dien Bien Phu area, near the Laotian border, and the Vinh sector, 170 miles south of Hanoi. No strikes were reported against the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex, which was raided Wednesday with an attack on a key power station outside Haiphong, the country's major port.

In the South, American aircraft aimed at Viet Cong river shipping in the Mekong River delta south of Saigon. Pilots claimed 24 sampans were sunk, seven of them motorized.

The latest outburst of terrorism in Saigon came despite maximum security precautions. The blast occurred half a block from a U.S. Army intelligence compound where a Viet Cong bomb injured four Americans Thursday.

Birthday Greeting

The U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Brigade sent a noisy birthday greeting of its own to the Viet Cong. On a patrol near Ben Cat, 35 miles north of Saigon, a battalion discovered a Viet Cong munitions dump with 6,000 pounds of explosives.

Battalion demolition men poured the ammunition into a huge hole and exploded it. The blast shook the ground for miles around in the heavily infiltrated Viet Cong area and sent up a tower of smoke.

A police official said maximum precautions were being

Safety Council Predicts Yule Road Death Toll

CHICAGO (AP)—Between 560 and 660 persons may die in traffic accidents during the nation's three-day Christmas weekend, according to the National Safety Council.

The council said Thursday that American motorists would drive an estimated 11 3 billion miles during the period, from 6 p m. (local time) Thursday, Dec. 23, to midnight Sunday, Dec. 26. On an average, non-holiday weekend motorists travel some 8.9 billion miles.

Records indicate Christmas is the most dangerous holiday for motorists, council President Howard Pyle said.

1,241 This Year

U. S. Losses in War Lower Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. losses in the Viet Nam war are lower than officials anticipated, it was learned today.

When the Pentagon laid out plans last summer for the big buildup in Viet Nam it cranked into its calculations an estimate of how many Americans might be expected to be killed.

While the figures are secret, it is known that fewer American servicemen have been killed so far than had been predicted.

The Pentagon reported Thursday that U.S. combat deaths as of last Monday totaled 1,496 dating to January 1961.

Of these, 1,241 have been killed this year — most of them since midsummer.

Red Losses Higher

At the same time, official estimates peg Communist losses at about 35,000, more than double the 17,000 reported killed in 1964.

This total is based on body count and there is a belief that many more Viet Cong were killed but that their bodies were carried away by their comrades.

Currently, Communist losses are said to be running about 10-1 over U.S. battle deaths.

Intensified ground and air operations are sure to bring a rising curve of casualties.

Thus far, U.S. battle deaths in Viet Nam still are well below those suffered in any major U.S. war of modern times. In Korea, for example, the United States lost 33,629 men.

The toll of wounded reached 6,863 as of last Monday. More than 5,000 of these wounds occurred in 1965.

The roster of missing has reached 126 men and 25 are believed held prisoner.

In addition to the killed in action, 437 Americans had died in Viet Nam from a variety of non-combat causes such as aircraft accidents and auto and truck crashes.

Volunteers Feted by St. Elizabeth Hospital

All year long, members of St. Elizabeth Hospital Auxiliary and Candy Stripers brighten the halls and perform countless services for the staff and patients. Their dedication is never taken for granted, for the hospital often takes note of the fact that smooth operation and that bit of extra warmth they provide is priceless.

Sometimes the 'thank you' is overlooked in the bustle of hospital routine, but Wednesday the hospital staff took a few hours to properly express its gratitude. All volunteers were guests at a tea in the staff room from 2 to 4 p.m. The affair was festive and bright with holiday decorations. Christmas cookies, coffee and punch were served.

Charlotte Ford Wed to Greek Shipping Magnate

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Automobile heiress Charlotte McDonnell Ford and Greek shipping magnate Stavros Spyros Niarchos arrived in Zurich today to honeymoon at the same Alpine resort where her father honeymooned last February.

Miss Ford, 24, elder daughter of Henry Ford II, and the 56-year-old Greek were married secretly in Tijuana, Mexico, Thursday by a civil judge one day after Niarchos received a divorce from his second wife. Miss Ford is a Roman Catholic.

Flew to Switzerland

The couple came to Switzerland in a chartered Boeing 707 jetliner and immediately took off in a private jet for Niarchos' chalet overlooking St. Moritz, the winter sports resort where her father honeymooned early this year with his second wife, Italian-born Maria Austin.

The marriage of Niarchos and Miss Ford was announced in New York by a spokesman for Ford and his divorced wife, Anne McDonnell Ford.

The parents learned of their daughter's planned marriage only the night before. Niarchos reportedly checked into a plush motel in Juarez three days ago and the wedding was quietly performed at 8 a.m. Thursday by Baltazar Aguirre, judge of the civil registers in Juarez.

The wedding announcement said the couple would live in Europe.

Has Six Homes

Niarchos, considered the largest independent shipowner in the world, has homes in Switzerland, France, England, Bermuda and Greece. But for years he has favored living in splendor on his yacht, Creole, the world's largest privately owned sailing vessel.

Miss Ford, attractive, with long blonde hair, had worked in New York as an unpaid deputy chief of protocol for the city. Last month she welcomed Princess Margaret of Great Britain to the city.

She is a close friend of President Johnson's eldest daughter, Lynda Bird.

She was active in support of the President in the 1964 campaign.

She also had worked as an interior decorator and was active in social and philanthropic causes. She made her debut in Detroit in 1959 at a party that cost $250,000 and took a year to plan. She has been listed among the 12 best-dressed women in the world.

Parents Divorced

Henry Ford II, grandson of the founder of the automobile empire, was excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church last February when he married Maria Christina Vettore Austin. She is a widow of a British naval officer.

The first Mrs. Ford lives in New York and Charlotte had lived with her.

Niarchos — whose name means "master of ships" — commands a fleet of more than 70 vessels. His worth is estimated at $260 million.

During World War II he leased his fleet to the Allies and served in the Royal Hellenic Navy for six years as a deck officer. For a time after the war he was an assistant naval attache at the Greek Embassy in Washington.

He is an avid art collector and in 1956 purchased the collection of actor Edward G. Robinson for a reported $3 million.

His first marriage to Melpomene Capparis in 1938 ended in divorce in 1947. He married Eugenie Livanos that same year and she bore him two sons and a daughter. They were divorced Wednesday.

Wed 'Older' Man

Niarchos is eight years older than his father-in-law, who is 48.

Miss Ford was born April 3, 1941, and is the oldest of the three children of Ford and his former wife. The others are Anne, 22, who is to be married Dec. 28 to Giancarlo Uzielli, a New York stockbroker, and a son, Edsel, who will be 17 this month.

Conversation Confirms It; Christmas Is A-Comin'

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It wouldn't be Christmas unless someone said:

"If she doesn't like it, she can always bring it back anytime before the first of the year."

"You'd better start behaving this very minute—or there'll be no Santa Claus coming down the chimney for you."

"I don't care what kind of toy it is—just so it doesn't make a noise."

Always a Scrooge

"I hate Christmas—it always makes me sad."

"Who put the raisins in the eggnog?"

"I hate to buy him a present until I am sure he is going to give me one."

"Every Christmas Eve it's the same thing, year after year. You come reeling home from your office party at midnight reeking of liquor and with lipstick marks all over both cheeks."

"I wouldn't mind Christmas so much if someone would just invent a self-carving turkey."

"What color necktie would you suggest for my husband? He's short, fat, middle-aged and has a mole on his forehead."

"Why not get her perfume? No woman ever has enough perfume."

"It really doesn't make any difference what I get her anyway—she always exchanges it."

"But Mama, I saw Santa Claus at the other department store. How could he be at this store, too? Did he run ahead of us?"

Count Again

"Well, they say Christmas comes but once a year—and sometimes I think that's twice too often."

"Will you plase quit humming 'Jingle Bells'? You're driving me out of my mind."

"It doesn't have to be too expensive. After all, it's the spirit behind it that counts."

"Yeah, it's for my wife. What size is she? Gee, I never asked her. But if you know what size Elizabeth Taylor is, just double it. That should fit her okay."

"I sweated and strained over a hot stove for half the day making this oyster dressing—and now you tell me you don't want any."

"Whatever we get them they'll break it by nightfall."

"Why don't you turn the tree that way? Then its bad side will be to the wall, and you can hardly notice it."

"Hey, bartender, can you help settle an argument? This guy here says Santa Claus has six reindeer, and I say he has seven. Who's right?"

"There'll be nothing else bought in this house before Easter—at the earliest."

"Mama, is it all right to send a card to a boy in your class even if he always pretends he doesn't even notice you?"

"I hate to take down the tree. The room looks so empty without it. I do believe it's the prettiest tree we ever had!"

Twilight Club Sets New Year's Dance

Panathenaeas Set Vaselopeta Feast

The Panathenaea Society had a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Spyro Gostas, 720 N. Appleton St., Tuesday evening.

Plans were made for a luncheon to be held after the Sunday School program of the Greek Orthodox Church Sunday at the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Anatasios Skaurtis and Mrs. Philip Rausoletos are co-chairmen.

A Vaselopeta dinner dance is scheduled for Jan. 19. A Greek buffet dinner will be served to members and friends. Mrs. Donald Dake, Kaukauna, is chairman.

The Valelopeta is a Greek winter vestival which is sponsored by all ladies societies of the Greek Orthodox Church throughout the world. Proceeds from all Vaselopeta parties in the U.S. are sent to St. Basil Orphanage, New York. A special sweet bread is made for the event and shared by all attending. The bread is baked with a coin inside and the recipient of the coin is said to have good luck throughout the new year. Mrs. Andrew Jimos will make the bread.

Lutheran Unit Holds Party

The annual Christmas party of the First English Lutheran Church Women was held Tuesday at the fellowship hall. Mrs. James Veum gave the welcome and the Rev. Leonard Ziemer spoke the invocation. "Stories of Hymns We Love" were told and sung by the group, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert Beglinger.

Retiring officers, Mmes. Loyal Krueger, Robert Koerner and Milton Wilson, were honored. A lace tablecloth was presented to the women of the church by Lois Circle members. Gifts were contributed for Lutheran Homes and for baskets for shutins.

Mrs. Robert Heinritz and Mrs. Robert Gauerke were committee co-chairmen. The program coordinator was Mrs. Don L. Jury.

Imaginative Dish Inspires the Chef

Add a cup of granted sharp cheddar cheese to a package of pastry mix and make up according to package directions. Roll out ¼-inch thick; but into strips and bake in a very hot oven for about 10 minutes. Serve as a delicious accompaniment to soup.

Appleton Vocational School Homemakers shared the bounty of their kitchens and the skill of their culinary accomplishments Wednesday noon at their annual holiday smorgasbord. The noon party was held at Trinity Lutheran Church parish hall. Above, members of the kitchen committee scurry as guests begin to arrive. They are Mrs. Elmer E. Miller, Mrs. Gust W. Children's Special Time With Santa

Brennan Hussey is enveloped in the love of Christmastime through the arms of Santa Claus. Brennan's peace and contentment make up happiness in his world. He is the son of the David Husseys. (Post-Crescent Photos by Robert Baeten)

"Letting Santa know" is all important to every child during those pre-Christmas days. The notion that he might somehow not get the letter on time, or that someone might forget to relay the message, or that the wish might not wing its way across the frozen northland of the ice pole can give a child real moments of panic.

Those in the Riverdale Drive area had the chance to express themselves to the Christmas man personally Wednesday afternoon when he appeared at a neighborhood party at the William J. Plank home, 1517 Riverdale Drive.

There were giggles and shy smiles, there were whispers and shouts, and for some, there was that quiet moment in which all Christmas magic springs to life, and the reason the season is ever old, ever new, is instantly obvious.

Brilliant Mind Should Know Enough to Forget Silly Prank

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a brilliant student at the state university. Two weeks before we were married Tim's friends gave him a stag party at which he got very drunk. The boys decided to drive him to a strange part of town, take off his trousers and leave him stranded.

Tim doesn't recall what happened, but he knows he wandered into a back yard. About 2:30 a.m. some people called the police and had him arrested. Tim spent the night in jail. Thank heavens the police understood it was a prank. They released him the next morning and the trespassing charges were droppeod.

What happened to Tim proves that one evening of foolishness can cause months of heartache. My husband has been a nervous wreck ever since. He is afraid the incident will ruin his career. I've talked until I'm blue in the face but he still worries. Can you say something to put his mind at ease? — Mrs. R.C.

Dear Mrs.: If the charges were dropped there is no record.

If Tim wants to drain his energies worrying about something that doesn't exist, he's not brilliant. He's stupid.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of four children — two girls and two boys. They range from 6 to 12 years of age. All winter long, one or two of my four children are out of school with a bad cold or worse.

I went to school yesterday to see the oldest boy in a play. Now I know why my kids are always sick. Five kids in that room should have been at home. I was shocked to see so many red noses, so much coughing, wheezing, sneezing and blowing. One boy looked like he had pink eye.

Some mothers push their half-sick children out the door because they don't want to bother with them. I feel this is unfair to the other youngsters and I want to know what can be done about it. — Furious

Dear Furious: You are right. Too many irresponsible mothers shove their sick kids out of the house when they should be kept at home.

It's up to the teacher to spot these youngsters and send them to the school nurse. The nurse should then decide whether the child should stay in school or be shipped home.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A friend of mine gave her boss four weeks' notice. There was no trouble, Suzy just got tired of the job and decided to do something more interesting. Her boss offered her a sizeable salary increase and tried hard to get her to stay but she told him her mind was made up.

Suzy has one more week to go and is eager to get out. Yesterday her boss asked her to please stay on an additional two weeks. Do you think this is fair? Suzy is afraid that if she refuses the boss will not give her a good recommendation. We would like your opinion. — Winnipeg

Dear Winnie: Although you don't say so, your letter makes it clear that Suzy does not yet have another job. If this is indeed the case I feel it would be extremely generous of her to work the additional two weeks and help the boss out.

She should make it clear, however, that she cannot stay beyond that time under any circumstances. There is much to be said for terminating a working relationship on a friendly note. Suzy will never regret it.

West opened the queen of hearts, holding the first trick, and continued with the jack of hearts to South's king. South led a club to dummy queen and returned a low diamond to the king.

This is where West showed he was not made of glass. He played a low diamond at the same speed as the other players — not too quickly and not too slowly.

South naturally assumed that East had the ace of diamonds. He therefore led a low diamond and tried a finesse with dummy's ten. East won with the jack of diamonds and returned his last heart to dummy's ace.

Now when declarer led another diamond he was flabbergasted to discover that West had the ace. West took the rest of the hearts to defeat the contract.

Would Make Contract

South would make the contract easily if West took the first diamond trick with the ace. West would have no further entry to the hearts, so South would be in no danger even if he later lost a trick to the jack of diamonds.

South would have an equally easy time if West made it clear that he was "refusing" the first diamond trick. South would continue with a diamond to dummy's queen thus making sure of at least nine tricks.

It isn't always enough to play low when declarer tries to knock out your entry to a long suit. You must act like a door, not like a window pane.

Parents' World

If a Father Is Irresponsible, Mother Must Handle Children

BY DR. EVE JONES

DEAR DR. JONES: My husband says he has enough to worry about being the plant supervisor over 76 people, so it's my job to handle our five boys and one girl.

However, I can't manage it. The boys never do what I tell them and all of them sass me back or make fun of me when I tell them to stop hitting each other.

My husband says I should slap them across the teeth if they show any disrespect. But I notice that he never says anything to them, so he doesn't have to worry about their sassiness. Also, he doesn't seem to realize that the two oldest boys, 14 and 12, are bigger than I am, and I'm afraid they might decide to slap me back one of these days if I followed his advice.

If their own father is too busy to pay any attention to them, how can I be expected to handle them? Mrs. S. I.

Surely you can think of better ways to convince your husband you're a frail female who needs his protection! Don't use your children. Letting them run wild to try to prove to him you want his help is a dangerous strategy— the juvenile authorities may eventually decide neither one of you can be trusted to take care of your children.

Pretend for the time being that your husband isn't in the family. His losing out on the pleasure of having a family is no reason for you to sacrifice your role as a mother.

Your husband's suggestion that you slap your kids around is foolish, so don't follow it. Instead, insist on courteous behavior or isolation. Assign chores to each child a week at a time and make certain these are completed before your children leave for school or to play after school.

If they fight, separate them at once and tell them to go off by themselves until they can be with people without wanting to hurt them. Tell them to shut up if they start to sass you — if necessary, take a sassy child by the arm and push him out of the room, with the reminder that he may not return until he knows enough to keep quiet or be pleasant.

This may sound like a lot of work to you—but then, you sound like a strong woman who can put out this effort without strain. Your fears that your children will strike you are probably without any foundation—certainly, so long as you're setting a good example of being responsible without being punishing, your children aren't likely to feel impelled to try to hurt you.

If it turns out that you're truly incapable of handling this relatively easy work of taking care of your children, make an appointment at the mental health service whose address is being sent to you. Some personal psychological counseling can help you understand how you're using your children as a scapegoat for your marital problems and probably can help you take more constructive action.

SEAMS TO ME
By Patricia Scott

After Yule Decorations

With the holiday season being over before you know it, you'll soon start thinking of new decorations for your home. A bedspread is a good item to start with, especially if you're rather new at sewing. A tailored one is the easiest type to make and it will give you practice in applying welting, corded or fringed seams — things you must learn how to do if you make covers in the future.

Measurement is important in preparing a spread. Consider the length of the bed, the width, and the depth from top of mattress to floor. Before measuring, the bed should have sheets, blankets and pillows. The average full-size bed measures about four feet, six inches wide by six feet, three inches long, but it may be as long as six feet, six inches.

To measure for a tailored spread with a flounce that extends from top of bed to floor and has an inverted pleat at each front corner, follow these steps while referring to the diagram (figure 1). Take length from B to head, over the pillow and down the back, well below the pillow. To this measurement, add 12 inches for tuck under pillow and 3 inches for hem and seams. For the width, measure from A to the same point on the opposite side. Add 1 inch for seams.

For side and front sections, measure from A to floor and B to floor plus 1 inch for seams. Allow 10 inches for each inverted plea. Cut the two side sections the same measurement as the top length including the pillow tuck-under, pleat allowance and seam allowance. The front section is cut the same as the top width measurement plus allowance. The seam that joins the front and side flounce sections will be on the inside of turn of the pleat. Cut all sections on the true grain of fabric.

When cutting the lining, use the same measurements as for the spread with one exception. Cut the front and side sections 1½ inches narrower in depth, or the width you allowed for the hem.

Pin each individual lining section to matching spread section. Welt or corded seams: Pin covered cord or welting to h top sectioh gt tne agineow the top section along the edge where you have indicated the seam allowance. Using the adjustable zipper cording foot, stitch together. Now, form the pleats on the side and front sections and stitch across top of pleat. Join the three sections together. Pin top section over the cord (figure 2). Fringe seam: Pin heading of fringe right on the seam allowance marking. Apply fringe first to the top section and then to the flounce, as described for cord.

Never try to join all sections together and insert the cording, welting or fringe at one time. Something is bound to slip or stretch when you're working with so much thickness.

Turn hem of flounce over lining and stitch by hand.

Live Within Your Income

Best Place to Start Seeking Scholarship Is With Principal

BY MARY FEELEY

Dear Miss Feeley:

Can you help me obtain information about the various kinds of help available to students wanting to go on to college?

We have two daughters in high school. One will graduate in a year, though we doubt if her grade average will make her eligible for a scholarship. The other has a much higher grade point average and wants to be a teacher.

My husband is a logger, so our income is very flexible, and we have less than $1,000 in savings. The girls have some money saved, but not enough to put them through even one year of college.

Now where do we apply for loans or scholarships? And when do we start?

Please don't tell me to ask our high school principal, as neither he nor our county office was any help to students needing this kind of information last year. What are some other sources we can try?

Oregon Reader

I'll tell you this, like it or not—most efforts toward arranging for scholarship opportunities usually start with the high school principal. Maybe you're not being smart to try to bypass this particular authority, and maybe your resentment could be due to the fact that you felt you were entitled to dump the problem in his lap and expect him to handle all details.

I don't want to be unfair to you. But one publication I know of which cites possibilities for obtaining educational benefits in your own state specifically advises consulting the high school principal in four instances out of seven!

Be that as it may, getting children into college these days has become a full-time career for parents. And the time to start working at it, in your case, is right now.

Find out, first of all, what scholarship possibilities are offered by organizations in your own community, business or service groups. I also suggest you write for a handbook put out only by the American Legion entitled "Need a Lift?" The 1965 issue discusses current educational opportunities, state by state. The handbook costs 25 cents. Write your request, including the quarter, to The American Legion, Dept. S., P.O. Box, 1055, Indianapolis, Indiana 46206.

If your daughter does teach full time after graduation in any public or non-profit private school, up to 10 per cent of the loan may be cancelled for each year of teaching up to a maximum of 50 per cent of the loan.

As you know, President Johnson has recently signed a $2.6 billion higher education bill designed to enable more young people to continue their education beyond high school. According to press quotes "It means", the President said, "that a high school senior anywhere in this country can apply to any college or university in the United States — and not be turned away because his family is poor."

But we might as well be realistic and keep in mind that "applying" and actually getting in can be two different kettles of fish.

Many states offer student loans available through the colleges' admission offices. write to the admission offices of these institutions, explaining your financial situation, the girl's grade averages, etc., and find out what the schools' qualifications and procedures are.

You state that one of your daughters wants to be a teacher. The National Defense Education Act offers loans to undergraduate students attending a college at least half-time and demonstrating a need for help. Up to a total of $1,000 per year may be borrowed for an overall total of not more than $5,000.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Art of Relaxing

Tension is a serious menace to appearance and charm. You neither look your best self not project your best self when you feel tired and jittery. What's more, your ability to cope with people and problems wears thin. And this only adds to stress.

Owing to the pressures of the season on time and energy, most of the feminine population is in a frenetic state. Let's try to restore calm and cheerful spirits.

Relief from tension takes many forms, for a method that works for you may not work for another. But it's a sure thing that you will recoup a relaxed approach by one of these measures:

1. Long soak, in warm and fragrant bath. This antidote, of course, depends on having a free half-hour. 2. Change of make-up and fresh haircomb: takes twenty minutes at most. 3. Brisk, fifteen-minute walk.

4. Ten minutes, lying limp on floor. 5. Five minutes, sitting in chair with feet elevated, eyes closed, head and arms dangling. 6. One minute, breathing deeply before an open window.

None of these methods will prove effective, however, if you let your thoughts play hopscotch and jump from one square of duty to another. You must make an effort to free your mind of agitations. This may take practice but the more proficient you become, the quicker you will unwind. The art of relaxing instantly will no longer elude you.

Put aside your grooming doubts and worries! Send today for Your Grooming — A to Z, a booklet that covers every step in achieving smooth looks. It tells how to manicure and pedicure, use deodorants and depilatories, bathe for beauty, tend feet, hands, teeth and eyes, polish skin and hair, care for clothes, apply perfume, overcome personal posers. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Coat Hanger Good Base For Wreath

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

If you're casting around for a serviceable base to wrap Christmas wreath greenery around, you'll find it right in your closet. When you bend a heavy wire coat hanger into a rough circle, you've got it made. The hanger part you can either snip off or keep to hang the wreath.

Q: When I removed the masking tape after painting my window frames, it left a sticky residue here and there. I know I should have cleaned it off when it was fresh, but I didn't. Now it has hardened, and scrubbing doesn't have any effect. Can you help me?

A: Dab on cleaning fluid with a cloth, give it enough time to work in, around and under the residue. Then gently rub it off, with finger nail, cloth or even a small piece of wood. Main concern is not to damage the new paint, so go easy on the elbow grease.

Q: Last month I had to renew all the screening on my weekend cottage porch, as the old screens finally gave out. Is there any treatment to give copper, not only to keep it from getting that weathered green color but to make it last longer?

A: You can get prepared screen enamel at any paint or hardware store. You can make just as good at home, by mixing one-half spar varnish, one-quarter linseed oil, one-quarter turpentine. Put it on with a screen applicator, not a brush (which would clog the mesh). You can make one, simply by tacking a small piece of carpeting, nap side out, around a small block of wood. This will spread the coating quickly and completely, but won't clog.

Three Hour Shopping Tour

Christmas a Reality for 150 Children

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

For more than three hours, Thursday evening, Christmas became a reality for 150 Appleton children, who might otherwise have been forgotten in the rush.

They were the children of 55 needy families who were taken on the annual Christmas shopping tour by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Allotted $3 to buy gifts for other members of the family, the children, darted through isles, looking for toys for brothers and sisters and little items of luxury for mothers.

Return to Counter

More often than not, many would return to the toy counter and look hungrily at a desired game or toy and then resolutely turn around and spend their share on bubble bath, a comb and brush set or an apron.

Three little gentlemen, dressed in suits, had made out lists before coming. The oldest, age nine, made sure grandmother, grandfather, mother and oldest sister would get gifts and then, with the money left over, told the youngest to buy something for himself.

None Were Selfish

Another pretty miss with a long blond pony tail deliberated with her Jaycee assistant whether "to buy a brush and comb set or a scarf for mother." She then decided to use the 25 cents she had put aside for candy and bought the more-expensive scarf.

"In the long run," said one Jaycee, "none of the children were selfish; almost all purchased gifts for others, with mother leading the list."

After the shopping, the children were taken to St. Mary School basement where, amid excitement, their presents were wrapped by the Jaycettes on one side of the room while a chorus of happy little voices joined in familiar carols on the other side, their presents close by.

Cookies and hot chocolate were served while they waited for Santa.

When he finally appeared, the children, many of whom had not even had the opportunity to visit him, squealed from excitement.

While the long line of children slowly moved past the beareded gentleman, a seven-year-old girl took her little sister, tired from shopping, by the hand and said, "Now we can go home, Jenny; Now we've seen Santa."

Co-chairmen of the project were Gene Paulson and Ike Wolfgram.

Union-Company End Strike at Paper Firm

Three-Year Package Provides 24 Cent Per Hour Increase; Added Employe Fringe Benefits

COMBINED LOCKS—The 48-day-old strike at the Combined Locks Paper Co. ended today.

In a joint announcement, officials of the company and two striking unions said agreement had been reached on a three-year contract.

The package calls for a 24-cent an hour pay increase and increased fringe benefits through Aug. 1 of 1968.

Marathon mediation talks between company negotiators and bargaining committees for two unions resulted in the contract agreement shortly after 8 p.m. Thursday in St. Paul Catholic Church hall.

Contract Vote

The 350 striking members of Local 264 of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers and Paperworkers and Local 144 of the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers will hold meetings at two locations tonight to vote on contract ratification.

Members of the bargaining committees of the two unions have recommended acceptance of the new contract terms and approval appears to be a formality.

The management - union representatives had met at the Combined Locks Pavilion all day Wednesday until midnight and adjourned until 1 p.m. Thursday.

Phillip Simon, Green Bay, a member of the federal mediation and conciliation staff, had pressed both parties in the dispute to continue talks when it appeared progress was being made.

Started Oct. 31

Thursday's meeting, which started at the pavilion and concluded with the settlement in the church hall, represented a showdown in the walkout which started Oct. 31 when contract talks broke down completely.

The old contract expired Aug. 1

Management and union bargaining representatives were meeting again this morning to review and sign a written memorandum setting forth settlement terms, according to the joint statement released by Charles Ehlke, personnel director for Combined Locks Paper Co.

Striking employes, who had been receiving benefits from their international unions, are expected to start returning to work Saturday morning if the three-year pact is approved tonight.

The company was looking forward to the resumption of work tomorrow and schedules were being prepared for posting today and Saturday.

Cowboy Guilty of Manslaughter

Jury Deliberates 10½ Hours; Charge Came From Knife Death

WAUPACA — Bernard E. Gallagher, 21, Millstadt, Ill. cowboy, was found guilty of manslaughter Thursday following 10½ hours of deliberation by a jury of 10 men and two women.

County Judge Wendell McHenry ordered a pre-sentence investigation and ordered Gallagher held in the county jail until sentencing. Judge McHenry said he expected the pre-sentence investigation to be completed by today or tomorrow. Maximum sentence for manslaughter is 10 years in prison.

Charges against Gallagher stem from the fatal stabbing of James Genke, 22, route 1, New London, July 4th.

Testimony was heard Wednesday and for an hour Thursday before the case went to the jury about 11:25 a.m. Thursday morning.

Jury Sent Back

After 9½ hours of deliberation, the jury was called to the court room and asked whether any progress was being made. Jury foreman Raymond V. Prahl, New London, indicated that none had been made and a decision had not been reached.

Judge McHenry sent the jury back to the jury room with the statement: "You are a responsible jury and can make a responsible decision just as well as a new jury."

Wednesday's testimony explained to the jury how the fatal stabbing occurred on a Manawa street during a rodeo last summer. Witnesses said the stabbing occurred when Genke disapproved of Gallagher and two friends associating with Genke's 15-year-old sister at a dance.

Saw Scuffle

After a scuffle on the street, some witnesses said, Genke was stabbed in the abdomen, rushed to the New London Community Hospital and died there July 15 from the wound.

Witnesses also included Dr. H. C. Schmallenberg, New London, who operated on Genke and Dr. Harold Wagner, a Kenosha pathologist, who explained the cause of death.

Gallagher's mother and employer took the stand briefly to testify about Gallagher's past conduct.

Mrs. Joan Pluedman, 22, 1019 S. Bartlett St., Shawano, testified Thursday she had been with Genke's wife and sister as the three walked on Bridge Street, and had seen Genke run up to Gallagher and the two scuffled briefly.

Earlier testimony from two policemen said there had been no struggle and that Gallagher, when he saw Genke running behind him, turned and struck a blow with his knife. Gallagher had testified there had been a struggle and that Genke had struck first and he had used the knife in an attempt to frighten Genke.

Probation Ordered For Check Passer

Samuel O'Rourke, 25, 1427 W. College Ave., was placed on probation to the State Department of Public Welfare for one year Thursday after he pleaded guilty of issuing worthless checks.

In addition, O'Rourke was ordered to make restitution of $82.62 for the eight checks that were cashed at Appleton business places in the past two months. The checks ranged in amount from $4 to $25.

O'Rourke appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Howard J. Rathbun

City-County CD Director Assumes Duties

Howard Rathbun, Army Veteran, Picks Lee Penney as Aide

Howard J. Rathbun assumed duty Thursday as the new Appleton-Outagamie County Civil Defense director, replacing Lee E. Penney who has been named assistant director.

Rathbun, a three-year resident of Appleton, was named to the post early last month. But did not take over the job until his retirement from the Army. Rathbun, 49, was one of six persons who has applied for the job.

Penney, who quit the post he held for five years to become sales manager for Appleton Marble and Granite Works, will serve as assistant civil defense director in a voluntary capacity. His appointment was made by Rathbun.

22 Years Service

The new director, a Milwaukee native, was in the armed services for 22 years prior to his retirement this month. He was an executive officer in the Second Howitzer Battalion, 2th Artillery in Germany before coming to Appleton where he became adviser at the Armed Forces Reserve Center.

Rathbun and his family, including a wife and one daughter, live at 48 S. Meadow Drive.

The Civil Defense staff including the network of volunteers, will remain unchanged, Rathbun said today. The only member of the office staff, besides Rathbun, is his secretary, Diane Hooyman.

A meeting of all Civil Defense personnel in the county will be called soon, Rathbun said.

The new director said he plans to attend a Civil Defense management and operations course at Battle Creek, Mich., within the next few months.

Appleton Earns $113,959 in Investment of School Bonds

City Officials Testify at Adverse Hearing on Contested Policy

The City of Appleton has earned $113,959 from short term investment of school bond proceeds since 1958, a circuit court commissioner was told here Thursday.

An adverse hearing of city officials in the office of Court Commissioner George Hannagan was the first round in a dispute between the Town of Grand Chute and city.

Grand Chute officials, through an attorney, claim the towns belonging to the Appleton school district should have shared in the outside income derived from six bond issues floated since 1958.

Pay 12 Per Cent

The Towns of Grand Chute, Menasha, Buchanan and Harrison pay an estimated 12 per cent of the annual public school tax levy.

It was indicated the adverse examination may be a prelude to an actual court test. The Appleton Council intends to fight the claims of the towns based on a recommendation of the finance committee.

Although City Clerk Elden Broehm, and Treas. Ray Feuerstein were subpoenaed to testify at the hearing, the burden fell on Finance Director Henry Schreve who had all the city's financial records.

City Presents Records

The city had been ordered to present all of its records concerning school bond issues and investments at the hearing, which it did.

Schreve said the $113,959 was earned on investments involving bond issues for the Madison, Huntley, Edison, Foster, Johnston and Einstein schools, all constructed in the past seven years.

Should the city at some time be ordered to pay a percentage of the investment proceeds to the towns, the Town of Grand Chute would receive $6,628.

However, Harrison would be entitled only to $683,45; Buchanan, $162.90, and Menasha, $20.02.

Contest Policy

Grand Chute officials said they are contesting the city's investment policy at this point in light of the fact that a $5 million-plus bond issue was just floated for an ew senior high school.

They said the city will be investing some of that money until it's time to pay the construction bills, and the town seeks to get a portion of the proceeds.

Opinions received by the council indicate the city has no legal obligation to share the proceeds with the towns. However, the statutes say the city may do so and could set up a special sinking fund to lower the school tax levy for the towns if it so desired.

The next move will be up to the Town of Grand Chute.

FWD Corp's Order Backlog Hits $30 Million

1965 Sales Highest In Any Peace-Time Year; Profit Up

CLINTONVILLE — The consolidated backlog of orders of the FWD Corp. is approximately $30,000,000, according to a report by L. A. DePolis, president, to FWD shareholders in the firm's 56th annual report.

DePolis reported fiscal 1965 consolidated sales of $38,761,946 were the highest in any peacetime year, and the net profit of $890,329 is an all-time record for the company. Fiscal 1965 profit before income taxes was $1,588,329 compared with $1,318,678 in 1964. Net earnings equal $2.62 per share of common stock compared with $1.97 for fiscal 1964.

Earnings per share for both years are computed on the number of shares outstanding after giving effect to the 5 per cent stock dividend declared Sept. 15, 1965, payable Nov. 5, 1965.

High Level Rate

He reported that the order rate at all plants continues at a high level and the unfilled order backlog was $19,612,500 on Sept. 30 1965 compared with $19,600,000 at the end of fiscal 1964. Recent orders have increased the consolidated backlog to approximately $30 million.

DePolis said FWD-Clintonville is showing substantial growth in the markets served with heavy duty, specialized vehicles. Based on an industry report prepared by the Department of Commerce, total domestic heavy duty truck sales were up nationally, 4.1 per cent for the 12 month-period ending Sept. 30, 1965. During this same period FWD domestic truck sales were up 21 per cent.

DePolis said 'the increased export activity reported last year has begun to pay off with

Kaukauna Man, Wife Face Christmas in Jail

William, Darlene Besaw Plead Guilty of Unarmed Robbery of Bank in Escanaba

Post-Crescent News Service

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — A former Kaukauna, Wis., man and his wife will be spending Christmas in jail following their guilty plea here Thursday on a bank robbery charge.

William J. and Darlene Besaw, both 31, pleaded guilty of the recent unarmed robbery of the Escanaba First National Bank when they appeared in district federal court.

Both had waived their right to an attorney at government expense, and declined a preliminary hearing "to get it over with."

Federal Judge R. W. Starr set bond at $25,000 for each defendant and said he would sentence them at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 29.

Maximum 40 Years

Conviction on the federal charge carries a maximum 40 years imprisonment. However, the minimum penalty is probation.

Besaw, who attended schools in Kaukauna and graduated from high school in 1954, was arrested two weeks ago after the $3,200 holdup. When booked by Escanaba police, he had a Kaukauna area motel receipt among his possessions.

The couple said they had been in the Kaukauna area the early part of November and then went to Michigan to seek employment. They were unemployed at the time of their arrest.

Mrs. Besaw, who told authorities she has children by a previous marriage, appeared upset during Thursday's court appearance but he showed no emotion.

Hand in Pocket

Escanaba authorities identified Mrs. Besaw as the woman who walked into the bank with one hand in her pocket —

Village Firemen Urge Fire Free Holiday Season

KIMBERLY — Volunteer firemen will distribute about 1,500 flyers to school children, to be delivered to parents, giving safety tips to be followed to prevent fires during the holiday season.

The flyers explain the importance of checking both interior and exterior lighted decorations, dangers of overloading electrical circuits, proper placing and care of Christmas trees and other fire safety precautions.

To emphasize the campaign one of the trucks bearing Santa Claus, a few firemen and a large sign will drive down the street in the village about 2 p.m. Saturday, advising people to be fire conscious. The bell on the truck will be sounded as the run is made.

Firemen indicated they not only are interested in a safe holiday season for their neighbors of the community, but simple precautions will assure the firemen of an uninterrupted holiday with their families.

Kaukauna High School Actors Swap

Negro Roles Filled by Exchange

KAUKAUNA — Four Negro students from Rufus King High School in Milwaukee will take Negro parts in a Kaukauna High School play, "In White America" early next year, and four Kaukauna High School students will take roles in a Rufus King presentation later in 1966.

The unique drama exchange was arranged by Thomas Schafer, Kaukauna play director, who said the presence of Negro actors in Negro roles in the play based on documents and speeches by Thomas Jefferson would have good impact on the audience. The play is the school's first major drama presentation of the year and the dates for showing have not been set.

Schaefer said he has made arrangements with Mrs. Ruth Thomas, Rufus King instructor, for an exchange of four Kaukauna High School actors with four Rufus King actors.

Board Approval

The four Kaukauna High School students will participate in a Rufus King presentation sometime later in 1966. The project has received the backing of the education boards of the two schools.

Schaefer said the actors will have an opportunity to play to an "out-of-town" audience and to work with different facilities and directing techniques. All students will have opportunities to exchange ideas and viewpoints with the visitors.

Plans at Milwaukee and Kaukauna involve a 4-week period during which the visitors will be house guests in homes and attend regular classes at the high school. They will also participate in social events and programs and join spectators at athletic contests, in whatever spare time they may have over and above demands of their heavy rehearsal schedule, Schaefer said.

"We will have to work with a lot of concentration since the time allotted will be somewhat shorter than the time usually given to preparing a play," said Schaefer.

The four students from Rufus King have already been selected. Since they are to be guests first in the exchange, arrangements were left to that school. They have also selected the four homes in which Kaukauna students will be guests.

Volunteer Homes

Students have been asked to help with the production of the play and an effort will be made to determine which students are interested in going to Milwaukee. Students are also asked to volunteer their homes for one of the visitors.

A cross section of the faculty and administration will select the four going to Rufus King. The plan was well received by Walter Schmidt, principal at Kaukauna, and John Powers, Rufus King principal.

Volunteer Firemen From Kimberly will use the 1927 model truck, shown above, when they drive throughout the village Saturday in an effort to promote fire safety during the holidays. Large signs on the truck will advise of safety and flyers will be distributed to school children for delivery to their parents. Shown placing the signs from left are John Hermus, William Van Hout, John Fiers, chief, and John Vosters. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Green Bay Takes Steps To Get Bridge

City Denied State Funds on Fourth Span on Fox River

Special to Post-Crescent

GREEN BAY, Wis. — This city, facing a bridge problem similar to Menasha's, is taking steps to get a new bridge, Mayor Donald Tilleman said today.

Green Bay was denied a request for state funds for a fourth bridge over the Fox River in 1959 for basically the same reasons Menasha was not granted its request for a Ninth Street Bridge this year — lack of state bridge construction funds.

The state has a yearly funding of $200,000 for bridge construction, Tilleman pointed out, and said it was "a sad thing that the State of Wisconsin with its beautiful waterways — waterways on which the cities are built — doesn't have sufficient funds for bridges."

Group Formed

Tilleman has formed a group of city officials to look into various ways by which financing can be arranged.

He said Brown County has offered some funds and the city might provide others. One possibility being considered is one that has been discussed by officials in Menasha.

That would be to use the county's bonding power to float construction loans, with state funds paying the interest.

The state legislature failed to pass a bill calling for a hike in the state's bonding limitations in the last session, so the state cannot provide the collateral for such loans.

The state highway commission recently agreed to go ahead with the final phases of survey work for two bridges over Little Lake Butte des Morts and the Fox River in the Town of Menasha.

When completed, these bridges will be part of the Tri-County Expressway ringing the Fox Cities. They will connect with U. S. 41 on the west.

Tilleman said committees on the Green Bay council have approved funds for hiring a bridge consultant to prepare plans for a new bridge.

Placed in Juvenile Custody

Appleton Youths Admit Chain of Burglaries

Eight Appleton youths placed in juvenile custody Wednesday in connection with a chain of burglaries and thefts have admitted taking part in seven more burglaries dating back to July.

Several admitted entering the Appleton Vocational School on two occasions, July 26 and Sept. 7. Considerable vandalism occurred during both burglaries.

A small amount of change was taken from vending machines during the September burglary. In July, the youths stole about $10 from the school.

Appleton detectives, who said the youths may be involved in still more burglaries and thefts, also cleared two break-ins at Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran Church, 209 S. Allen St.

They said the youths, all 14 years of age, admitted entering the church July 26 and Oct. 24. About $20 was taken from a desk and a small amount of change was stolen from a vending machine on the first entry. Nothing was reported missing the second time, detectives said.

Fifth Burglary

A fifth burglary admitted by several youths was at Foster School Sept. 25 when about 50 cents was taken from a vending machine. Several rooms were ransacked and considerable vandalism, mainly glass breakage, occurred.

The theft of $2 during a burglary at Riverview Country Club July 12 also was admitted by some of the youths. Several minor items also were taken at that time. Entry was gained through a roof ventilator.

Detectives said the youths also entered Marston Brothers Inc. office, 405 E. Railroad St., a second time on Nov. 29. They admitted entering the office another time the same day.

Knitting Mill Fire Controlled At Janesville

JANESVILLE (AP)—A flash fire that burst through the main plant of Norwood Mills Inc., at the north city limits of Janesville was brought under control today in about two hours.

One fireman, William Lafferty, was injured in a fall and taken to the hospital with a wrist injury.

All available units of the Janesville Fire Department were fighting the blaze and assistance was asked from nearby Beloit. Portions of the roof and walls of the plant had collapsed.

The fire was discovered shortly after 7 a.m. Larry Nunn, an employe working in the building at the time, said there was a "large flash" in the upper section and the entire first floor burst into flame.

The factory, employing about 350 persons, was built approximately one year ago. A sprinkler system was to have been installed next week. The plant is a 130,000 square foot metal structure, consisting of a main floor and basement, with no partitions.

Norwood Mills manufactures knitted high pile fabrics. The firm has another factory at Sarasota, Fla.

Slap in Castro's Face

Anti-U. S. Meeting In Cuba Could Sour

By ISAAC M. FLORES

HAVANA (AP) — There are indications that a tricontinental conference of anti-American organizations here next month may backfire against its Cuban hosts.

Diplomats and some Cuban political experts privately express the view that these organizations from Asia, Africa and Latin America may use the conference to exhort the violent overthrow of governments in their own countries.

In such a case, these observers reason, won't some of the governments of the countries involved blame Prime Minister Fidel Castro for cooking up revolutions against them?

Trigger Criticism

There is reason to believe the conference may also trigger criticism of Castro by Latin-American countries, many of them convinced that Cuba is exporting revolution throughout the hemisphere.

Some of the Asian and African countries to be represented here have governments that are friendly toward the Cuban Communist regime. This is not a conference of governments, however. It is a gathering of leftist groups, all claiming to be popular liberation movements seeking to establish socialism in their own countries.

Organizations from 100 countries have been asked to send five representatives each to Havana Jan. 3-10. Castro obviously plans to make it a huge propaganda show. The dates coincide with the seventh anniversary of his revolution.

The official aims of the conference are:

—"The solidarity of the peoples of Asia, Africa and Latin America in the struggle against imperialism, colonialism and neocolonialism."

—Coordination of efforts in the "common struggle for national emancipation and reconstruction." One organizer explained this meant a "mobilization for the conquest of true independence for the peoples in the three continents."

—Economic, social and cultural solidarity.

Holding the conference here, said one Cuban official, "is one way of demonstrating to imperialism that our country is not as isolated as they think it is." He meant the United States.

Office Buildings To be Built for State Agency

Employment Service Facilities in Three East-Central Cities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A program of office building construction for the employment security services of the State Industrial Commission in northeastern and eastern Wisconsin cities will begin next spring with structurese in downtown Wausau, Sheboygan and Manitowoc.

In succeeding years other buildings will be authorized to house the staffs of the state employment service and the division of unemployment compensation who serve the employers and employes of the Fox River Valley cities, according to the commission. There are now branch offices in rented quarters in Green Bay, Appleton, Menasha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Beaver Dam.

Financing for the construction is provided by the federal government out of the share of the payroll tax paid by employers for the cost of administration of the unemployment compensation program.

Approved Buildings

Such central office buildings are authorized only in areas of diversified manufacturing and employment. Thus far such buildings have been provided in seven other cities, including Racine, Kenosha, Janesville, Madison, LaCrosse, Eau Claire and Superior.

Gene Rowland of the industrial commission, presenting the plans for the approval of the State Building Commission, said the Wausau structure will probably cost about $180,000, and those at Manitowoc and Sheboygan $150,000 each. Construction will start before next July 1, he said.

Alarm Systems Suggested for Yule Decorations

Appleton residents might do well to rig up an alarm system to their outdoor Christmas decorations.

Ten more homeowners complained to police Thursday that decorations, mostly tree lights, were stolen from their yards. Police have received an avalanche of such complaints since residents began dressing up their homes for the holiday season.

Many residents also have reported breakage of ornaments by vandals. Police believe most of the vandalism is being done by youngsters.

The thefts reported Thursday ranged from seven to 50 lights and a "Santa's face". The thefts are occurring in all parts of town.

Police, who are continuing their investigation, today appealed to residents for assistance. Anyone noticing suspicious actions of persons loitering around homes displaying Christmas decorations is asked to notify police and attempt to get a description.

When he was elected, he declined to take the county board post and was later given the treasurer's office by appointment. Bentz had served four years as supervisor for Appleton's Seventh Ward from 1953 to 1957.

Bentz was a member of St. Joseph Church, the Holy Name Society, a member of the Third and Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, the Noon Optimists Club, the Outagamie County Republican Party, the American Legion, the 40 et 8, the Catholic War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the World War I Veterans and the Outagamie County Courthouse Association.

Survivors include his widow, and two sisters. A nephew, the Rev. Valerian Schreiter, will officiate at funeral services Saturday at St. Joseph Church. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery. Friends may call at the Wichmann Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Friday.

Rob Billings is chairman of the Kangaroo Hop arrangements. Assisting him will be Kareen Heckmann and Kathy Manley.

Judges of the tree competition were Miss Helen Firkus, Robert Ekholm, Robert Thom and Miss Sue Holthusen. They judged on originality, neatness and appeal.

He said FWD Wagner (Portland, Ore.), in achieving record sales and earnings, has outgrown its facilities, and approximately 20,000 square feet of new space is under construction. The new building will be used for warehousing and light metal fabrication. This will release a substantial amount of urgently needed prime manufacturing space in the main building.

FWD Corp. (Canada) Ltd., which also had record sales and profits, continues to expand and has recently occupied 20,400 square feet of new plant which was completed during the latter part of fiscal 1965.

The firm plans to build the FWD Wagner line in Canada. A number of these machines were placed in service during the past year and manufacture of selected models in 1966 is being planned at this time, DePolis reported.

Of the $30,000,000 backlog of unfilled orders, Lloyd Pernot, general sales manager, explained that $23,000,000 is with FWD Corp. and concerns construction, highway and utility vehicles, crane carriers, export and government orders.

Pernot added that an additional $5,000,000 is in orders for trucks and parts in the Seagrave Division and the remaining backlog is with FWD Wagner and FWD Corp. in Canada.

Money Asked For County Conservation

Stream, Wildlife Protection Projects To Cost $35,900

OSHKOSH — Projects totaling $35,900 for streambank protection and wildlife area development are being requested for Winnebago County, it was announced Thursday.

A list of "practices" was drawn up by the county development committee which submits it to the Wolf River Regional Planning Commission.

The commission in turn combines this request with the requests of other counties in the Wolf River basin and submits it to the state agricultural conservation and stabilization committee for allocation of the funds.

The practices apply only to farm lands since the money comes from farm funds. The Wolf River Commission is asking congress to include nonfarm areas in allocations for future streambank and wildlife practice.

Attending Thursday's meeting of the development committee were Walter Wiederman, Howard Beck, Merle Anderson and Henry Malchow of the county ASCS committee; George Framberger, Soil Conservation Service farm planner; County Agent Vernon W. Peroutky; Supvs. Warren Miracle, Max Carpenter and George Hunter of the county board's agriculture committee, and Jerry Reichkoff, Harold Steineke and Douglas Morrisett of the state conservation department.

The $35,900 request includes 15 stream bank practices totaling $22,500, five level ditch practices at $5,000, 10 wildlife ponds for $5,000, 10 wildlife area establishments for $1,000 and 12 beautification practices costing $2,400. These are tentative practices which must be completed by Dec. 31, 1966.

The state ASCS Committee has in reserve just under $800,000 for special projects.

Union-Paper Mill End Combined Locks Strike

recent explosion in the plant is under repair and there is some doubt as to when all machines will be back in operation. However, it is expected it will be by next week, or shortly after.

Presidents of the two unions are Phillip Voights, Local 144, and Ervin Marquardt, Local 264.

There was optimism that contract agreement would be reached when disputants agreed to continue talks after Wednesday's 14-hour session.

Simon had indicated yesterday both sides appeared willing to talk and he hoped they would continue to do so "whether it takes one or several hours to reach an agreement."

The joint statement issued by Ehlke shortly before 10 a.m. today reviewed negotiations and explained the bulk of the issues that had been resolved between the company and the unions.

"Two long days of negotiations between the Combined Locks Paper Co. and the two unions (both named) have resulted in agreement on a new labor contract and the settlement of the strike of mill employes, which started on Oct. 31, 1965," the statement said.

Retroactive Pay

It said the settlement provides for retroactive pay to Aug. 1, 1965.

"The settlement provides for a contract through June 1, 1968 with adjustments in wages, insurance, profit sharing trust, paid vacations and establishment of craft apprenticeship training," it added.

General wage adjustments will be spread out over the three years. They are: 8-cents per hour increase back to Aug. 1; a 3 per cent increase but not less than 8-cents per hour effective Aug. 1, 1966; and an 8-cent per hour increase effective Aug. 1, 1967.

The company-union authorized statement said increased vacation benefits are provided for in the first and second years of the agreement, along with increased group insurance benefits in each of the three years of the new agreement.

Kaukauna Man, Wife to Spend Yule in Jail pretending she had a gun — and ordered the money turned over to her.

Police said a man waiting outside in a car for her was identified as Besaw.

While confined to the Marquette, Mich., federal detention jail last week, Besaw reportedly encouraged one of the inmates to start mattress fires to provide a smoke screen for a planned jailbreak.

The federal marshal who transported the couple from Marquette to Grand Rapids on Wednesday said they presented no problem. However, on a previous occasion police had to carry Mrs. Besaw into jail.

Waived Jury Trial

Besaw and his wife also waived a jury trial before Judge Starr which cleared the way for sentencing next week.

Prosecuting Atty. Nicholas Chapekis of Escanaba described the bank robbery as "an amateurish crime."

Chapekas has authorized state warrents against the couple but they have not been served, he said today. The charge is unarmed robbery. "I'm awaiting the outcome of the federal litigation,' Chapekas said.

Besaw is wanted in Outagamie County and other parts of Wisconsin on bad check charges dating back four to five years.

Michigan authorities said they heard Besaw was wanted in Wisconsin but have not been contacted by Outagamie County authorities.

Make a Miniature Christmas Tree From Paper Doilies

BY CAPPY DICK

A miniature Christmas tree is fun to make from paper doilies. The tree is so small you may want to make several to place in various locations, such as on the whatnot shelf.

You will need four paper doilies for one tree. Cut the outer edge off one, then cut a triangular section from the remainder as shown by the dotted line in Figure 1 Cut a piece of shiny green foil paper of the same size and shape. With drops of glue, fasten the doily to the foil paper, then roll it into a cone, gluing the edges together. This forms the lowest tier of the tree (Figure 3).

Make three more tiers the same way, each one smaller than the one before. Run a pipe cleaner up through the pointed tops to serve as a tree trunk. Stick the bottom end of the trunk into a small wad of modeling clay to hold it upright.

Get some vari-colored sequins and glue them to the lacey tiers. This is what the girl is doing in Figure 2. Glue a small silver star to the top of the tree as in Figure 3.

If you can find some very small colored pictures of dolls, trains, boxes of candy and similar Christmas gifts cut them out and glue them to the tree Saturday: How to make your own holiday greeting cards!

Glue the sequins on.

A highly rated Wisconsin Lutheran High School will invade the Fox Valley Lutheran High School gymnasium Saturday night for a crucial Mid-West Prep Conference tilt.

There is a limited schedule of conference play with one game slated for tonight, (pitting Milwaukee Lutheran against University School) while the FVL-WL game is the only one scheduled for Saturday night

The Foxes need a victory to stay in the running for the MPC crown, while a Viking win would give them a solid, 2½-game lead over the nearest contender

WLHS comes into the game rated as the No. 9 big team in the state according to one news service poll

Have 7 Wins

The Vikings have a 7-0 record to date, with conference wins over Wayland, Racine Lutheran, Concordia and Milwaukee University School They also have downed three non-conference opponents, which include Milwaukee Messmer, Milwaukee Notre Dame, and West Allis Central.

Wisconsin Lutheran has its entire starting lineup back from last year, when the team won the MPC title and had two players on the all-conference first team and one on the second team

The five lettermen include Randy Goede (6-5), Tom Bilitz (6-2), Jerry Zaar (6-4), Tom Schwarzl (5-8) and Daryl Raabe (6-1). Goede and Bilitz were the all-conference picks and Schwarzl the second team choice

As an all-conference pick last year Goede had 181 points in 10 games to tie for the league scoring title, while Bilitz was third in scoring with 177.

Thus far this year, Goede leads the league in scoring with better than 25 points per game in four MPC outings

Coach Glen Raasch characterizes his team in this way. "We have good experience, above average rebounding, all-around

Vikings Have Exams, Set Sights on Holiday Tourney Dec. 29, 30

The Lawrence University basketball team is in the midst of a 2-week break for exams and the holiday vacation period following, but Coach Clyde Rusk is busy mapping plans.

Next encounter for the Vikings will be in the annual Holiday Tournament which Lawrence will host on Dec. 29 and 30 The tourney will have Lawrence meeting Northland College of Ashland in the opening game and Milton College faces St Norbert of DePere in the other first round contest.

On the following night, the two losers meet in the consolation tilt and the championship game will follow. A trophy will be presented to the winning team and an outstanding player award will be given.

6-Point Losses

After four games in the Midwest Conference, the Vikes have a 1-3 record Lawrence opened the season with a pair of 6-point losses at home and last weekend defeated Grinnell before bowing to a hot-shooting Cornell team.

"We played our best game collectively Friday night when we defeated Grinnell," Coach Rusk pointed out. "The boys came through with some good clutch shooting and the rebounding showed improvement."

The win was particularly savory for the Vikes in that it was the first time a Lawrence team had defeated Grinnell on its home court since the 1950 season, 15 years ago

Cold First Half

"In the Cornell game we ran into a cold first half hitting only eight of 40 field goal attempts," the Lawrence mentor said In the meantime, Cornell dropped in 23 of 41 shots to take a commanding lead.

Highlight of the weekend, according to Rusk, was the play of Steve Simon, sophomore center from Milwaukee, Wis. Simon had 45 points in the two games and he made a total of 19 field goals out of 32 attempts for a percentage of 59 4.

Rusk also singled out big Jim Swanson, 6-9 center, from Appleton, for some good defensive work in the two tilts over the AFL in the number of premier signings.

Rusk plans periodic work next week in preparation for the tournament games and some heavier drills beginning the Monday after Christmas.

NFL teams previously had picked off the Chargers fourth choice, halfback Charles Brown of Syracuse; their fifth choice, Miami halfback Russ Smith, and their eighth selection, linebacker Doug Buffone of Louisville. Brown and Buffone signed with Chicago while Smith went with Atlanta.

The Falcons now have signed five of their first six selections, including the big one—Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis. In addition, they also have signed two of Rassas' Notre Dame teammates, receiver Phil Sheridan and halfback Bill Wolski.

Morin was the 11th of 16 first-round selections to be corraled by the NFL, which has lost only one top choice.

The AFL, on the other hand, has signed five of its 10 first-round picks and lost three to the NFL.

Surprising Rams Favored by 6½ Points Over Baltimore

Colts Obtain Ed Brown From Steelers for QB Insurance

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Baltimore Colts place all their chips on the table and the Los Angeles Rams hope to rake them in when these National Football League rivals meet in Memorial Coliseum Saturday.

It's the climactic battle of the 1965 season for the Colts, badly crippled by the loss of their famed and feared quarterback, Johnny Unitas, and also their second string signal caller, Gary Cuozzo

It is also something of a climax for the cellar-bound Rams, who have boomed along to three consecutive victories and suddenly loom as a large factor in the hectic race in the NFL Western Conference.

Ed Brown

The Rams are favored by 6½ points — a tribute to their rejuvenation and, in reverse, the absence of Mr. Unitas Johnny U. will watch the game from the Colts' bench, his injured knee still in a cast.

His replacement? Tom Matte, erstwhile fine running halfback.

As additional insurance Baltimore claimed on waivers from the Pittsburgh Steelers a 12-year NFL veteran quarterback, Ed Brown.

The title picture is this:

Knee in Cast

If the Rams win, goodbye title for the Colts, who go into the game trailing the Green Bay Packers by one-half game.

If Baltimore wins and Green Bay loses to San Francisco at San Francisco Sunday, Baltimore picks up the chips and faces the Eastern Division winner, Cleveland, Jan. 2.

Packers Win

If Green Bay wins, the Packers win the division title.

If the Chicago Bears defeat Minnesota at Chicago, and both Green Bay and Baltimore lose, Chicago and Green Bay tie for the title.

If Baltimore defeats the Rams and Green Bay ties San Francisco, Baltimore and Green Bay tie for the title.

Confusing?

Well, so has been the race in the league's wild Western section

The Rams lost eight straight games and in the last defeat also lost their regular quarterback, Bill Munson, via a leg injury.

Alternate Roman Gabriel went into service and Los Angeles knocked off in order Green Bay, St. Louis and Cleveland.

Suddenly Jelled

No one can really say why the Rams lost eight in a row but Gabriel, such backs as Dick Bass, Ben Wilson, Lester Josephon and Willie Brown and

Injury to Leg May Sideline Jim Taylor For 49er Contest

Christiansen Points Out Packers Have Allowed Only 200 Points

SAN FRANSICO (AP) — Jim Taylor may be missing from the Green Bay lineup Sunday when the Packers meet the San Francisco 49ers in a bid to sew up the National Football League's Western Conference title

Coach Vince Lombardi said Thursday that the fullback suffered a leg injury last week against the Baltimore Colts and may have to be replaced by either Tom Moore or rookie Allan Jacobs

Taylor has not participated in full workouts this week.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach Jack Christansen of the San Francisco 49ers was one of the top defensive halfbacks in the National Football League for the Detroit Lions.

But it doesn't take a defensive back or a head coach to appreciate how the Green Bay Packers have managed to climb to the top of the Western Conference with only two of the 14 NFL teams below the in offensive statistics

"When we played at Detroit, we gave up an average of only 117 points per game in one of 17 points per game in one of our title years," Christiansen said as his 49ers prepared for the season finale Sunday against the Packers, 'and people around Detroit said the defensive team won the title

Gave Up 200 Points

"But I notice that Green Bay has given up only 200 points in 3 games," Christiansen continued "That's an average of little over 15 per game "

No matter what happens 24 hours earlier 440 miles down south, the Packers must go all out Sunday against the 49ers, the NFL's second leading offensive team

Baltimore with its quarterback problems meets an oncoming Los Angeles team in the Rams' home lair Saturday in a game televised across the country. The Colts are 9-3-1 and must win to stay in contention — if even for just one day

But even if the Colts should lose, the Chicago Bears could tie Green Bay by beating Minnesota on Sunday should the 49ers score an upset.

Escape Humiliation

The 49ers will take their best shot, if for nothing else to escape the humiliation of their 60-21 defeat last Sunday as Gale Sayers scored six touchdowns for the Bears.

On that same day, Paul Hornung was crossing the goal five times for the Packers against the Colts And Hornung has scored 110 of his 700 career points against these same 49ers.

The Golden Boy has averaged exactly 10 points a game against the 49ers including a high of 23 in a 1960 contest. In that same year, the former Notre Dame star scored all the points as the Packers sloshed 13-0 over the 49ers in a mud battle.

Hornung reaches his 30th birthday one week from today, something he'd probably like to celebrate by giving himself a conference title for a present.

Coaches Pick West Virginia To Win Classic

UW Opens Against Washington Tonight In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — West Virginia is the only basketball team entered in the Milwaukee Classic with a winning record That distinction, a 4-1 mark, made the Mountaineers tournament favorites and the choice to whip Marquette (2-3) in the first round tonight

Wisconsin (1-3) will meet Washington (1-2) in the second round game The winners will play for the championship at 9:30 o'clock Saturday night with the losers facing off for a third place at :30 o'clock

The swift Mountaineers' four victories exactly total the number of victories by the other three teams combined The four tourney entries have won only eight games and lost nine.

That's a far cry from last year when eventual National Collegiate Athletic Association champion UCLA, Boston College and the two host schools, brought an over all mark of 12-6 into the Classic. UCLA won the scoring punch and fairly good bench strength."

FVL Coach Gerhard Kaniess has stressed the importance of the victory to keep the Foxes in contention in the League and has insisted that despite the rating of the Milwaukee School, his team is quite capable of coming through with a victory.

Good Condition

Kaniess' starting lineup will be the same one he has been going with in the first four games, as everyone is expected to be in good physical condition. This includes Mark Dahlke and Dave Tiedt at the forwards, Tom Ehlke at center, and Alan Olson, Dennis Neumann, and Howie Korth alternating at the guards.

Dahlke is currently third in the league in scoring with 53 points, for a 17.6 average.

Mathematically, the Foxes have a better-than-average chance of pulling one of the biggest MPC upsets of the year. The Vikings met University School on their own court last Saturday and won in a 3-point decision, while the night before FVL staged a rally to down the same University School by seven on the Foxes' court.

Hill Captured Heart of City, Says Pastor

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mack Lee Hill Jr., Kansas City Chiefs fullback who died Tuesday after knee surgery, was described Thursday by club owner Lamar Hunt as completely unselfish.

"I never knew him to try less than his total potential," Hunt said at a memorial service for the 25-year-old player. "His nature was to keep trying until each obstacle was met and overcome."

Jack Steadman, general manager of the Chiefs, also spoke and Curtis McClinton, Chiefs' running back, sang the Lord's Prayer.

The Rev. H. Calvin McMillan, pastor of the Allen African Methodist Episcopal Church, gave the eulogy.

"Mack Hill was not with us long, but it was long enough to capture the heart of a great city," he said.

Hill will be buried in Quincy, Fla., where he was born.

He was injured in last Sunday's game against the Buffalo Bills. The operation was intended to repair ruptured ligaments in the right knee. He died soon after the surgery. Results of an autopsy are not complete.

Stout collected its fifth victory without a loss Thursday night and tightened its hold on first place in the Wisconsin State University Conference, but had to share the spotlight with junior Stan Johnson of Eau Claire who scored 38 points against Stevens Point.

Stout knocked off Oshkosh 73-56 to put a dent in Oshkosh's first place aspirations. Johnson exploded for his 38, 25 in the first half, to pace Eau Claire (1-2) to a 102-84 victory over the Pointers. La Crosse clipped Superior 87-84 and River Falls stopped Whitewater 93-71.

Stout dominated the boards with James Conley grabbing 23 rebounds and adding 15 points. Mike Thompson of Stout was the game's high scorer with 17 points. Gene Englund scored 13 points for Oshkosh, now 3-1 in the league.

Started Clicking

Eau Claire and Stevens Point (1-3) were deadlocked at 20-20 when Johnson started clicking and the winners raced to a 54-32 halftime edge. The 6-foot-2 guard has now scored 196 points in six games. Gerry Lawatzki notched 19 points for the Pointers.

La Crosse (2-1) took advantage of deadly free throw shooting to come from behind for its victory over Superior (0-5).

La Crosse conencted on 25 of 32 from the foul line. The Yellowjackets built up a 46-36 halftime lead but lost it with only 1:26 left to play when Bob Bruett scored on a foul shot to snap an 80-80 tie.

Ron Byers scored 19 points for the Indians. Curt Lahte had 20 points for the losers, 18 of them in the first half.

Ken Lee racked up 27 points as River Falls (3-2) handed Whitewater its fifth straight conference loss.

Colts Battle Rams Saturday

the offenive line suddenly jelled.

The defense boasts the best record against rushing in the league, thanks to the massive front four, David Jones, Merlin Olsen, Lamar Lundy and Roosevelt Grier.

The Rams have made no secret they have a score to settle with the Colts. At B altimore Oct. 24 the Rams led, 20-14, in the fourth quarter.

But Unitas united the Colts and they won, 35-20.

Loser, also, of $1,000 was the Rams' coach, Harland Svare, who, well aware of the consequences and fine from Commissioner Pete Rozelle, waxed critical of the officiating.

Baltimore obviously is at a disadvantage in this rematch. Matte, a veteran halfback, has been converted almost overnight into a quarterback, a position in which he has called seven plays as a pro.

Five Years Ago

Matte quarterbacked at Ohio State. But that was five years ago and the quarterback requirements of Coach Woody Hayes are somewhat different than pro ball, like night and day.

Matte, Lenny Moore, Jimmy Orr, Raymond Berry and the Colts' offense, and their admittedly strong defensive platoon, have a big job ahead.

A Steeler spokesman said the Colts "asked us if we would be willing to put Brown on waivers."

National Football League runs ban trades after the fifth game of the season. But the spokesman said "maybe the Baltimore Colts will remember us in their will."

In New York, an NFL spokesman said, "Brown cleared waivers as is necessary under league rules."

Brown holds the ball for placements so he has appeared in all 13 Steeler games, but he has been used at quarterback in only thre games.

His season totals show seven completions in 18 attempt for 123 yards, no touchdowns and five interceptions. He was dumped twice for losses of 20 yards.

The 37-year-old quarterback is in his 12th year in the NFL.

Appleton High School will bid for its 25th straight Fox River Valley Junior Varsity Conference basketball win tonight when it invades Green Bay Southwest.

The Junior Terrors, coached by John Graff, won their final four games of the 1963-64 season, swept all 16 conference games last season and have a 4-0 record for 1965-6 play.

AHS and Manitowoc are the only unbeaten JV teams in the circuit. Sheboygan North is third, one game behind.

The Junior Terrors' two most recent wins were 51-46 over Sheboygan South and 53-43 over West. AHS' top scorer, Tom Hintz, missed the South game because of an infected toe and played only about one quarter of the West game — but scored eight points.

Bob Meyer scored 19 and 9 points, respectively, against South and West for AHS. George Mills, Jr., tallied 13 and 15, respectively. Rick Stack totaled 18 points for the two nights.

Appleton gave away considerable height to West but outrebounded the Junior Wildcats. AHS' tallest started is the 6-foot Duane Van Handel.

Eight Teams in Invitational Mat Tourney

Kimberly Host To Day-Long Meet Saturday

Pulaski, Kaukauna, Neenah and Kimberly are expected to battle it out for the team title in the Kimberly Invitational wrestling tournament at the high school gym Saturday.

Eight teams are slated to compete in the tourney, which is slated to get underway at 10 a.m. with the preliminaries. The semi-finals are scheduled for 2 p.m., with the finals and consolation matches slated to begin at 7 p.m.

Other entrants include Appleton, Menasha, Brillion and Fond du Lac.

The preliminaries consist of 48 matches, four in each of the 12 weight classes. The victors will advance to the semi-finals (24 matches) and semi-winners will meet in the 12-match finals, with the losers bying for consolation laurels.

Undefeated wrestlers

Coach Tony Dvorak's host Papermakers will be led by Ron Vandenberg (95 pound class), Mike Maas (127), Gary Millske (133), Bob Van Eyck (145) and heavyweight Dan DeWeert. Mass, Millske and Vandenberg are undefeated in four matches, while De Weert has not lost in three bouts. Van Eyck has won three and tied one. Kimberly's big win to date was a 34-16 verdict over Kaukauna Thursday night.

Rocket colors will be carried by Bob Brockman (120), Mike LeGault (138) and Mike Milliken (165). The Neenah triumvirate is unbeaten in 15 matches.

Menasha's representatives will be led by 270-pound unbeaten heavyweight Dan Lingnofski, Greg Morgan (103) and Bob Pawelkiewicz (154).

Heading Coach Lowell Glynn's Appleton contingent will be Wayne Lutz (138), Tom Gerrits (145) and Dick Erickson (180).

Brillion, coached by Roland Radke, defeated Omro Thursday and boasts a victory over Green Bay Preble. The Lions have lost to Seymour.

Top Kaukauna candidates include Al Hartzheim (120), Bruce McCabe (112), Scott Bay (165) and Pete Parker (180).

Iowa's Snook Signs Pact With Cards

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Quarterback Gary Snook of Iowa signed with the National Football League St. Louis Cardinals Thursday.

Snook joins teammate and defensive end Dave Long on the Cardinal rookie roster. Snook was a fourth round draft choice.

Terms of the contract were not announced.

Snook was not drafted by the American Football League.

Snook, 6-1, 185 pounds, broke 15 Big Ten and Iowa passing records in his junior year in 1964 and tied two others. This year, although the Hawkeyes were 1-9, Snook completed 95 of 230 passes for 1,009 yards and four touchdowns.

In his three year varsity career, he completed 280 out of 631 passes for 3,738 yards and 20 touchdowns.

Bobcats Rally Post Second Win of Tour

PARIS (AP) The Green Bay Bobcats came back strong in the third period Wednesday night to defeat a Canadian and French combine 5-4 in a hockey game at the Boulogne ice rink.

This was the second victory in two nights for the Bobcats, who lost three straight in Russia. They defeated the Servette team in Geneva 6-1 Tuesday night.

The Bobcats looked like the stronger, more agile team all the way but were unable to get their plays working in the first two periods. Play was rough by French standards and a number of penalties were called.

Maisonneuve got three of the Bobcat goals while Coppo and Harpelli registered one each.

Bears, Vikings Clash Sunday

Tarkenton Needs 194 Yards to Tie His Own Record

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears, who have won nine of their last 10 games, meet the Minnesota Vikings Sunday in a game that brings to a close the regular National Football League season for both teams.

But the answer to the question whether the Bears have finished competitive play for this NFL season will be found on the West Coast this weekend.

Green Bay, which leads the NFL Western Division with a 10-3 record, meets San Francisco, which is 7-6, on Sunday. The Baltimore Colts, in second place in the Western Division at 9-3-1, play the Los Angeles Rams Saturday. The Rams have won their last three games and are 4-9 in the standings.

The Bears are third in the division at 9-4.

The Vikings, with six victories and seven losses, dropped a 45-37 decision to the Bears earlier this seaon in Minnesota. Gale Sayers, the Bears' red-hot backfield star, scored four touchdowns, including a 96-yard kickoff run.

In-And-Out Year

Minnesota has had an in-and-out campaign this year. The Vikings lost their first two games, won the next two, then dropped the first Bears' game. They won their next three games, but dropped four straight before last Sunday's 29-7 victory over the Detroit Lions.

The Vikings displayed some hidden defense and offensive strength against Detroit Sunday. Quarterback Fran Tarkenton kept the offense rolling through mud and strong Lions' defense and hit 13 pass receivers for 204 yards and two touchdowns.

Tarkenton, now in his fifth NFL season with the Vikings, needs 194 yards to tie his record with the club for passing yardage in one season. He needs 13 pass completion to tie his best seaon record.

Vikings' House Stars in Practice Swimming Meet

Lawrence University swimmer Pete House snapped four records in a practice meet against Ripon College over the weekend, according to Viking coach Gene Davis.

House was clocked in 22.9 seconds in the 50-yard freestyle, breaking the pool mark of 23.4 and the varsity mark of 24.2. A 2:32.2 clocking in the 200-yard individual medley snapped the previous standard of 2:25.6.

House's fourth record-breaking trek was a 52.5 effort in the 100-yard freestyle, snapping the varsity mark of 53.5.

Lawrence freshman Toc Mitchel broke the 500-yard freestyle mark with a time of 5:47.3.

Others who showed promise according to Davis were captain Fred Nordeen (butterly), Ken Melnick (Breaststroke), Hugh Dennison and freshman Carl Liebich (freestyle) and John Sanders (backstroke).

Since the meet was a practice affair, no scores were kept.

Picks Rams Over Colts

Packers Will Tip 49ers, Jack Hand Forecasts

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay should wrap up the Western Conference title Sunday on the final day of the season if the Packers can generate the same smashing power they showed in beating Baltimore last Sunday.

The battered Colts figure to have their hands full Saturday against the revived Los Angeles Rams in the Coliseum. Chicago can be expected to pull out all the stops against Minnesota with Gale Sayers going for the scoring title and the Bears still clinging to a hope of a tie for first.

It's the last time around for the Hand-picker. Last week's 8-3 record made it 60-30-1 in the NFL, 28-15-5 in the AFL and 88-45-6 for the season.

Let's try once more: (All games Sunday unless otherwise noted):

NFL

Los Angeles 21, Baltimore 14, Saturday — with Gary Cuozzo out of action. Tom Matte or Ed Brown must carry the load in this nationally televised game over CBS. Colts desperately need this one but must go with inexperienced passer or vet who never has worked with receivers.

Green Bay 21, San Francisco 14 — Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor looked like one-two punch of old against Colts and Bart Starr was on beam. Solid Packer defense beat 49ers 27-10 in mid-October but it must be at top level to handle John Brodie-Dave Parks battery. San Francisco offense in high gear but their defense hasn't stopped many. Packers favored.

Washington 28, Pittsburgh 10 — Redskins are trying safety Paul Krause at split end with Pat Richter out and are benching Charley Taylor for George Hugley. Steelers in tough shape have lost six in a row and had nine passes intercepted last week by Eagles. Washington romped 31-3 Nov. 21 and should repeat. Redskins favored.

Chicago 42, Minnesota 21 — All out for the races. Gale Sayers scored six last week and ripped the Vikings for four TDs the first time they saw him Oct. 17 in 45-37 Chicago win. Vikings snapped out of it against Lions but their defense is in for another long afternoon. Bears favored.

New York 28, Dallas 24 — This is for second place and a trip to the Playoff Bowl at Miami. Giants go if they win or tie. Cowboys must win to get the sun tan.

Cleveland 28, St. Louis 14 — Charley Johnson underwent shoulder operation this week so beat-up Cards must go with Buddy Humphrey. Browns had their letdown in Los Angeles and should be tuning up for Jan. 2 title game. Jim Brown needs TDs to catch up with Sayers. Cleveland favored despite 49-13 beating by St. Louis, Sept. 26.

Philadelphia 17, Detroit 14 — Eagles have more punch, but Lions' rugged defense will make it real tight.

AFL

Boston 28, Houston 21 Saturday — George Blanda threw three TDs in Oilers' Sept. 19 victory 31-10, but Pats are moving in stretch and Houston is staggering. If Jets lose to Buffalo, this could be for second place in the East. It's on national television from Boston over NBC Boston favored.

Buffalo 37, New York 21 — Bills have beaten Jets once in regular season and twice in exhibitions and must stay sharp to be ready for Dec. 26 title game at San Diego. Jets hopeful Matt Snell's ankle will be solid enough to let him play. Buffalo favored.

Oakland 21, San Diego 14— Chargers without Keith Lincoln, but Paul Lowe needs only 11 yards to top league rushing record. Oakland was in race until last week and Al Davis would like to get even for Sept. 19 defeat by Chargers 17-6. San Diego favored

Kansas City 31, Denver 21 — Denver will go with Jacky Lee at quarterback, hoping to reverse earlier 31-23 defeat. Chiefs shaken by death of Mack Lee Hill will shift Curt CcClinton to fullback and use Bery Coan at halfback. Chiefs favored.

Fights Last Night

AKRON, Ohio — Wilbert (Skeeter) McClure, 163½, Toledo, stopped Fred Terry, 172, Philadelphia, 4; Amos Johnson, 199, Medina, Ohio, knocked out Ray Staples, 190, Reading, Pa., 2.

LOS ANGELES — Andy Gonzalez, 139½, Pittsburgh, outpointed Bernie Magallanes, 141, Los Angeles, 8; Zeke Perez, 149, Denver, Colo., and Frank Jennings, 149, Compton, Calif., 8, draw

Paul Attributes Comeback To 'Mind Over Matter'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We knew we had to do it. Call it mind over matter," said halfback Paul Hornung, the toast of the football world once again after his five touchdown performance last Sunday against the Baltimore Colts.

Hornung was reviewing the Green Bay Packers' season, which until last Sunday's 42-27 victory included few heroics from Hornung.

"This slump hit the whole offense," said Hornung, "no matter whom the coach used, whether Tom Moore, Elijah Pitts or me. The old spark wasn't there.

"But thank heaven we came out of it. You play all year for that one game, the championship. We're not going to let that prize slip away."

The only way that could happen would be for the San Francico 49ers to upset Green Bay Sunday.

Max McGee, Hornung's roommate, was asked what the Golden Boy would do for an encore against the 49ers. "Well, if he doesn't get a haircut, he can play the guitar at halftime," Max replied.

Bob Lewis Sets Record

Syracuse Remains on Unbeaten List, 103-79

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Syracuse, one of the disappointments of the college basketball season a year ago, is on the way back.

In contrast to their poor start last season when they won their first game then lost six in a row, the Orangemen chalked up their sixth straight against no defeats this season with a 103-79 victory over previously unbeaten Penn State Thursday night.

Dave Bing, 6-foot-3 from Washington, D.C., delighted a record turnout of 6,913 at the Manley Field House on the Syracuse campus. He paced the Orange with 24 points, 10 rebounds and six assists.

Carver Clinton, with 28 points, led the Nittany Lions who stayed in contention until Syracuse took a nine-point lead 79-70 late in the second half.

Make Headlines

Another youth from the nation's capital, Bob Lewis, also made headlines.

Lewis, a 6-3 junior, set an all-time individual one-game scoring record for North Carolina with 49 points as the Tar Heels swamped Florida State 115-80 at Chapel Hill.

Lewis hit on 18 of 25 shots from the field and got 13 of 16 free throws as he erased the previous Tar Heel one - game record of 48 points set last year by Billy Cunningham against Tulane. In addition Lewis grabbed seven rebounds and handed out five assists.

Tony Hinkle, veteran Butler coach, again was thwarted in his bid for his 500th career victory when ninth-ranked Bradley defeated his Bulldogs 73-70 at Peoria. It was the seventh straight victory for the unbeaten Braves, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to play Thursday.

Houston, paced by Joe Hamood's 20 points, won the unofficial championship of the two-day Bluebonnet Classic at Houston by defeating Texas A&M 90-85. The Cougars were the only ones to win on both nights.

South Carolina, which had surprised Duke, The AP's No. 1 team last week, took a 83-66 trouncing from NYU in the feature of a New York doubleheader. Stan McKenzie scored a career high of 37 points for the Violets. Unbeaten DePaul swamped Iona 82-37 in the other game at Madison Square Garden.

Predict Good Weather for Liberty Bowl

Auburn, Ole Miss Clash Saturday In Seventh Classic

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The weatherman gave the Liberty Bowl a boost with a forecast of no rain and moderately cool weather Thursday as the Auburn Tigers reported in for its battle with Ole Miss Saturday.

Two chartered planes brought the team and Gov. George Wallace from Montgomery and after checking in at their hotel, Coach Ralph Jordan sent his squad through an hour-long drill. Another workout is scheduled for this afternoon.

Stay in Oxford

While Auburn tested temperature and turf here Ole Miss remained in Oxford and conducted similar light workouts Coach Johnny Vaught of the Rebs said "Win, lose or draw, I'll be happy if we play as good as we did against Alabama, but we hope to win."

Jordan said his team has prepared harder for Ole Miss "than for any other bowl game since I've been at Auburn."

And while the practices and speculation goes on, Memphis' first Liberty Bowl weekend began shaping up as the biggest football festival in the city's history.

Following the regionally televised football classic, the Liberty Bowl awards dinner will be held.

With the ticket sale nearing 40,000 and hotel rooms at a minimum, the stage is set for the seventh annual Liberty Bowl.

Life, Property Threatened by Utilities Abandoning Dams

Legislature Studies State Control System

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's damaging spring floods and the possibility of similar devastation in the early months of 1966, turned a legislative committee today to a study of the state's system of dams.

Donald Iverson of Hudson, a member of the Legislature Council's Conservation Committee, said public utilities are abandoning dams in growing numbers and the lack of state or local policy on continued maintenance poses a threat to life and property.

Iverson said dams on two St. Croix River tributaries were heavily damaged during this spring's flood in the upper Mississippi Valley and that the Legislature should make itself responsible for determining the condition of all dams in the state.

Public Service Commission figures set the number of Wisconsin dams at about 1,000. The commission is the stage agency responsble for issuing dam permits and authorizing their abandonment.

Favor Larger Plants

Power companies are cutting back small dam operations in favor of larger electricity-producing plants.

The constitutionality of using state funds to maintain or operate dams is questionable, Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, R-Minocqua, told the committee, because of the prohibition against using state funds for internal improvements.

The committee agreed to press the attorney general's office for an opinion on what steps the state could legally take. It also sent a request to the Public Service Commission for a complete inventory on existing dams, their age, condition and ownership.

Assemblyman Norman Anderson, D-Madison, was named chairman of the council committee; Assemblyman Joseph Sweda, D-Lublin, vice chairman, and Alfonsi, secretary.

Fire Does $27.8 Million Damage in State in '64

MADISON (AP) — The State Insurance Department said Thursday that fires caused $27.8 million damage in Wisconsin in 1964.

The department, in its annual report, said nearly half of the 35,500 fires were caused by lightning. Faulty wiring, careless smoking and television sets were other causes listed.

Judgeship Still Not Official

Legislator to Return Despite House Farewell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Colleagues of Rep. Oren Harris joined in farewell eulogies to a departing member before Congress adjourned in October. Harris responded with what was considered a farewell address.

But Harris now plans to be in his seat when the House reconvenes Jan. 10.

The reason: President Johnson, who nominated the Arkansas Democrat in July to be a federal judge, still hasn't signed the formal commission although the Senate confirmed the nomination in August. And Harris doesn't plan to give up his House seat until his new judicial position is official.

Reached by telephone at his home in El Dorado, Harris wouldn't comment on the unusual delay between the time of his confirmation and the time he can officially don his judicial robes.

Representatives Theories

His colleagues advanced some of their own theories.

Most of them said the political situation in Arkansas was at the root of the delay. State law provides for runoff elections between the two top candidates when no one receives a majesty of votes in a primary election. But it doesn't provide for a runoff in a special election to fill a vacancy.

In a special election, the top man would win even though he did not receive a majority of the votes.

"About 15 people already have indicated that they would like to run," an Arkansas political expert said. "We don't know who would win in a race like that. A Republican, or a Negro, could come out on top if the Democrats split their majority of votes among a dozen or more candidates."

Special Election

For that reason, he explained, Gov. Orval E. Faubus might not call a special election to name a successor to Harris but would leave the seat vacant until it is filled in the regular election next November.

Such a course would leave the people of the 4th Congressional District without representation in the House after Harris resigned. To avoid that situation, Harris' judicial commission might be held up until some of the major bills have been acted on by the House next year.

Another explanation for the delay was that the President wants Harris — who will be 62 next Monday — to steer several more bills through the House before bowing out.

Harris is chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which this year handled some major bills in the "Great Society" program. Still before the committee is the President's transportation bill.

Catholic School Dismisses 20 From Faculty

St. John University Action 'Absurd', Says Union Leader Priest

By GEORGE NEWMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of faculty members fired by St. John's University in the past two days has risen to more than 20, a faculty spokesman said today.

The dismissals by the nation's largest Roman Catholic university came after 10 months of feuding between faculty and administration over academic freedom.

Among those dismissed was Msgr. John Clancy, a former member of the Vatican Secretariat who was secretary to Pope Paul VI when the Pope was a cardinal.

Voice in Administration

Another was the Rev. Peter O'Reilly, head of the St. John's chapter of the AFL-CIO United Federation of College Teachers, which has often been the spokesman for faculty members demanding a greater voice in university administration.

"It's absurd," said Father O'Reilly, who received his notice of dismissal Thursday night. "I'm still getting word of other dismissals. Right now there are more than 20."

Father O'Reilly said his union was "giving very serious consideration" to calling a strike at St. John's when classes resume Jan. 3. The university closed Wednesday — two days earlier than scheduled — for Christmas vacation.

The Very Rev. Joseph T. Cahill, president of the university, said the closing was in answer to a request for extra holidays by Stefanos Cardinal Sidarouss, Coptic patriarch of Alexandria, who received an honorary degree Tuesday night.

6 to 18 Months

Father Cahill said of the firings:

"The board of trustees has given from 6 to 18 months' notice to certain members of the faculty that their contracts will not be renewed.

"In accordance with standard university practice, neither the reasons for the action nor the identities of the persons involved will be discussed publicly," he said.

The identities were made public, however, by faculty members, including some of those dismissed. Most attacked the university for what Father O'Reilly called "failure to enter the 20th century and to keep up with the new ecumenical spirit in the Church."

Msgr. Clancy, the author of a biography of Pope Paul, declined to discuss the firings "until I have time to think this thing through."

Father O'Reilly said virtually all the fired teachers were members of his union, which claims 71 members at St. John's. The university, with campuses in Queens and Brooklyn, has about 600 teachers and 12,500 students.

Must Solve Comfort Problem

'Crummy, Itchy' Crew Convinced Pilots Can Endure Month in Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—The record-breaking flight of Gemini 7's "crummy and itchy" crew has already persuaded medical officers that future pilots will be able to endure the confinement of space travel for at least 30 days.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, says, "There is no limit to in-flight time if we can solve the comfort problem."

"I personally feel the Gemini 7 astronauts will be in no worse shape after 14 days than the Gemini 5 pilots were after eight days," he said.

In their 6x8-foot instrument-jammed cabin Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. have been unable to bathe, shave or even stretch out full length since their launch Dec. 4.

'Only Way to Fly'

They have voiced few complaints, however, except to say they felt "crummy and itchy" and that they were too warm when required to wear pressure suits. When allowed to strip down to their long underwear, both agreed that was "the only way to fly."

"Admittedly, Gemini 7 is a small spacecraft," Berry said in an interview toward the end of the two-week flight. "But if they had a larger vehicle in which they could move around I believe they could go to 30 days or even longer.

"These two men have adapted normally in their heart rates, sleep and performance. For the rest of the flight we are going to watch closely the small comfort items that may get more bothersome, such as the simple problem of getting clean."

Berry said Borman and Lovell have shown no signs of the motion sickness suffered by two of the three men aboard the Russian Voskhod 1 spacecraft in October 1964.

Pilot Okay

One of the two was a doctor, the other a scientist. Their commander, an experienced fighter pilot, felt no ill effects.

Berry pointed out that the United States also plans to send scientists into space but they are being given flight training first.

"There are some factors we don't understand in motion sickness," he said, "but we do check the sensitivity of all astronaut candidates to this sort of stress."

Berry said there are no plans to let future astronauts shave. Razors or electric shavers would take up valuable cabin space and there is always the chance tiny pieces of whiskers might sift into electrical equipment and cause short circuits.

The crummy, itchy feeling apparently hasn't bothered Borman and Lovell too much, he said. "They have adequate water left. They could saturate tissue with water and rub their bodies down while unsuited, but they apparently haven't done so yet. As far as I know, they have used moist towels only on the face."

AMC Not in Any Trouble, President Says

DETROIT (AP)— "American Motors is not in trouble in any way," says Roy Abernethy ,the automobile company president "And when you look at things over all, we are on the way up."

Abernethy made the comment Thursday at a news conference after a speech at the Economic Club of Detroit.

The executive of the Wisconsin-based firm said AMC's share of the auto market was "not quite what we expected it to be" but predicted the situation would improve.

He said the 13-day shutdown of AMC car building lines between Christmas and Jan. 17 would help get the company's field stocks in better order.

Abernethy, in predicting improved future sales, said the company made money in October and November and indicated the firm would finish in the black for the final quarter of 1965.

Lost $13 Million

AMC lost $13 million in the quarter ending Sept. 30 and passed its dividend.

"Many people still think of us as the maker of compact cars," said Abernethy. "And we have to convince them that our cars match anything the Big three has to offer, with the exception of two or three of their top cars."

AMC sales this year have been estimated at about 303,000. A total of 362,000 was sold in a comparable period last year.

Abernethy won applause in the question and answer period after his talk when in reply to a question about the company's future, he said: "We'll continue to take the Big Three head on."

Bookie Operations Alleged in Kenosha

Complaint in '63 Started Doe Hearings

KENOSHA (AP)—A complaint that triggered the Kenosha John Doe probe in 1963 included an allegation that bookie operations existed in the city, it was disclosed Thursday at a preliminary hearing.

The complaint, signed by three aldermen, also alleged that gambling went on in a supper club, that city property was stolen from city hall and that some police officers were bribed.

The complaint was made public for the first time when it was shown to a defense lawyer for a defendant accused of perjury in a John Doe warrant.

County Judge Earl D. Morton showed the document to the lawyer and it was made part of the evidence at the hearing.

The four - page complaint alleged that in February 1963 an unknown person offered to place a bet in Kenosha by telephone with a person identified only as "Mabel."

Plans Stolen

ary 1961 a city employe "unlawfully and intentionally" walked off with city-owned plans and specifications for city work.

The complaint also alleged that about Oct. 5, 1962, gambling went on in a supper club. The final allegation was that some police officers had accepted money from unknown persons ... "pursuant to an understanding that such public employes would do or omit to do certain acts in violation of their lawful duties."

On the basis of the complaint the probe was ordered in July 1963 and hearings began in November of that year. Two of the three men who signed the complaint are no longer aldermen.

Beverly Hills Won't Accept Poverty Funds

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — This wealthy city of movie stars and millionaires has declined with a "thank you anyway," an offer of $82,875 in poverty funds.

"We really didn't feel we could honestly say the money was needed," said School Supt. Kenneth L. Peters. "We were able to find only eight children of 5,000 enrolled who could possibly be classed as 'needy.'

"In our judgment, these children are not educationally deprived or handicapped. They are in small classes that average 25 and remedial help is available if needed."

The allotment formula, under the 1965 Federal Education Act, was based on the 1960 census which showed that of 30,817 Beverly Hills residents, 460 families reported an average income of less than $2,000.

Tennessee Favored In Bluebonnet Tilt

Anderson-to-Twilley Passing Combination Features Tulsa '11'

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "We are expecting a 38-37 game and expect to score the 38," said Glenn Dobbs, coach of Tulsa, on the Bluebonnet Bowl game with Tennessee scheduled Saturday.

Doug Dickey, coach of Tennessee, wasn't that strong but he observed that no one had held Tulsa to less than two touchdowns and "I figure we will need 15 points at the least."

But he wasn't as positive about his team doing the most scoring, although he did not forecast defeat.

Thus, the battle lines were drawn today for the seventh annual Bluebonnet Bowl in which the favorite never has won.

Tennessee is the favorite here by seven points.

Both coaches have injuries to key men to worry them but Dickey said, "Let's not even talk about injuries — we are playing the game with what we have, there is no point in discussing what might have been."

Townes Won't Start

Dobbs said his massive tackle, Willie Townes, who was ailing with a charley horse, wouldn't start but would play some, perhaps a lot. Townes was the outstanding lineman of last year when Tulsa beat Mississippi 14-7.

A crowd of 60,000, barring bad weather, is predicted for the game set for Rice University Stadium at 1:15 p.m., CST.

The game matches the mightiest passing combination in the country — Bill Anderson to Howard Twilley — against one of the nation's point-stingiest teams until it met UCLA in the last game of the season. Then the Vols went all out offensively and wound up the season in style with a 37-34 victory.

Each team will draw about $135,000 as its share for the biggest "take" yet in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Coaches Pick West Virginia To Win Classic

title, the first visiting team ever to do so.

Wisconsin Coach John Erickson picked the Mountaineers as the team to beat but cautioned, "Records are not always a criterion. I think Washington's an awfully good team and I don't think Marquette will fall down and play dead."

Marquette Coach Al McGuire agrees with Erickson and said, "It should be West Virginia all the way. They look the best. I feel we have an excellent chance against them. We're ready to bust out and this might be the game."

West Virginia Coach Bucky Waters isn't sure the Mountaineers deserve the favorite role.

"It's gratifying to know the other coaches think that much of us," said Waters. "We're a very young team and we've had to struggle in our last two home games. The only thing we can do is accept the challenge and hope we can justify the coaches' respect for our team."

"Off their record and the teams they've played, you'd have to pick West Virginia as the favorite," said Washington Coach Mac Duckworth. "Otherwise, it looks pretty even."

Cope With Speed

The Warriors will have to cope with West Virginia's speed and hope to do this by controlling the boards and Waters isn't sure his charges will be able to prevent this.

Washington will have a formidable height advantage over the Badgers. The Huskies are the tallest team in the tournament and this has Erickson worried.

"Washington's an awfully big team," said Erickson. "We've had problems with size before." The Huksies have 6-foot-10 Gordon Harris at center and two forwards that go 6-feet-7 and 6-foot-6.

West Virginia has the best offense averaging 89.6 points per game and Washington the stingiest defense allowing only 68.6 points a game.

Saban Named Coach of Year In the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Saban, coach of the defending champion Buffalo Bills, has been voted Coach of the Year in the American Football League.

An Associated Press panel of 24 sports writers that included three from each league city, gave Saban 14 votes. Al Davis of Oakland was second with seven. Sid Gillman of San Diego, the Western Division champions, got two, and Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets received one.

Under Saban's direction, the Buffalo club has established itself as a solid ball club with a fine offensive line and a stubborn defense built around tackle Tom Sestak.

When the Bills got rid of Cookie Gilchrist last winter, many wondered out loud if Saban could repeat without his big fullback. When the Bills lost both Elbert Dubenion and Glenn Bass their two top receivers, in early season, the cause appeared lost.

But Saban, 44, rallied the club around quarterback Jack Kemp acquired Bo Roberson from Oakland in a trade and went on to win the division title in November.

First-Round Crown Won by Sindahl's in 'Y' Volleyball League

Sindahl's (24-3) swept three games from Hupka Jewelers to capture the first-round title in the YMCA Men's Volleyball League.

Bleier's Bar (21-6) won three over Appleton Mills to finish second, while Crunchers (17-10) swept three from Slim Otto's (14-13) to finish in a tie with Watt's Up for third place.

Watt's Up won three from AAL No. 2. AAL No. 1 dropped two of three to Reddy Raiders.

Shofner Out of Sunday's Tilt

Giants, Cowboys Vie for Berth in NFL Playoff Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Francis Sweeny's weekly medical report has deprived the New York Giants of star pass catcher Del Shofner for Sunday's showdown game against Dallas.

Sunday's winner gets a trip to Miami to play in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl against the second place finishers in the NFL Western Division.

Shofner, according to Dr. Sweeny, the club's physician, suffered a fractured rib on his left side and a severe whiplash condition of the neck when he was hit by Washington's Johnny Sample in last Sunday's 27-10 victory over the Redskins.

But Shofner's loss was balanced by the good news that three other Giants casualties are expected to be ready for Sunday's game. Dr. Sweeny said versatile Joe Morrison, pass-catcher Aaron Thomas and defensive back Henry Carr have recovered from their injuries and can play against the Cowboys.

Morrison, who can play halfback as well as flanker or end, cracked a rib in the game against Pittsburgh Dec. 5 and was reported finished for the season. But he has made a swift recovery and with his ribs padded and taped, he can play Sunday.

Jerry's Wins to Take BABA Lead

Jerry's Lanes, of Kimberly, breezed to a 91-76 victory over Plover to take sole possession of first place in the Badger Amateur Basketball Association Southern Division race.

Six players scored in double figures for Jerry's. Don Hearden and Hank Peerenboom led the way with 24 and 22 points, respectively. Dave Thaldorf tallied 27 for Plover.

Lowe Voted Comeback Award in AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Lowe, the running sensation of the American Football League, has been voted the Comeback Player of the Year for his ability to bounce back strong after injuries threatened his career.

Lowe sat out the entire 1962 season with a broken arm and won the comeback award by gaining 1,010 yards in 1963. Last year he saw limited action due to a torn muscle in this right leg and his production dropped off to 513 yards and five touchdowns.

The injury jinx hit again this season when a torn muscle in his left leg forced him to miss the exhibition season of the San Diego Chargers.

On opening day, Lowe ran for 122 yards against Denver and started on his way to his current total of 1,089 yards, only 10 short of the league record set by Clem Daniels of Oakland in 1963.

Bob Long Encounters 49ers' Dave Parks On Shopping Tour

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

PALO ALTO, Calif. — Bob Long and Lloyd Voss did a spot of Christmas shopping at the Town and Country Village Center Thursday ... and you'll never guess who they ran into.

The familiar face belonged to Dave Parks, the 49ers' outstanding sophomore flanker who ranks second in the league with 61 receptions and first with 12 touchdown catches.

"I had known him a little," Long said, "and it seems like I know him real well. I have a lot of interest in pass receivers, and I always watch him. He's a second-year man, too.

"He told me the 49ers were a little upset about losing to the Bears by such a big score."

He told that Parks had 17 passes thrown at him by John Brodie in the Bear game (he caught eight). Long joked, "If they threw 17 at me in one game I'd get five touchdowns."

Parks and Long are about the same size, although the 49er receiver is about eight pounds heavier.

Throws 42 Passes

This brings up the point today ... can you imagine Bart Starr leaning on one receiver to the tune of 17 passes? Brodie threw 42 all day. "Bart only threw that many last Sunday but he completed 10 for three touchdowns. Our system has proven itself and it certainly is right," Long said.

Which is why the Packers rarely have an end among the league's leading receivers. Boyd Dowler caught 53 in 1963 and that was phenomenal.

Other than Ron Kramer, who was also noted for his blocking, only one Packer end made the Pro Bowl game since Coach Vince Lombardi came to Green Bay, insisted on a balanced offense and, of course, produced the winners to prove that "it's right."

Dowler recalled that "Max (McGee) was the only receiver to make it. I never made it but I guess the closest I came was when I was a rookie. I really don't care because we're winning as a team of receivers." Dowler was rookie of the year in 1959.

Boyd thought it over a moment and then added, "I suppose it would be nice to go—just to say I was there."

Carroll Dale, the Pack's other starting "distance" receiver, has never been in the Pro Bowl game but he's familiar with the Coliseum in Los Angeles where the game is played. He was with the Rams five seasons starting in 1960.

In fact, it turns out that Dale was a key figure in the Rams' upset of the Colts in Los Angeles in 1960. He caught an 81-yard touchdown pass from Bill Wade that day and "that ball went 63 yards in the air, which is still a record in the coliseum. Caught it falling away and I guess I was lucky."

That Ram victory all but ruined the Colts chances of winning the championship and made it possible for the Bays to become champs by winning at San Francisco the next day.

Have Lively Drill

The Packers went through another lively drill Thursday and, again, Lombardi hasn't found it necessary to crack the whip. All practices are closed to the general public except for members of the Stanford University football team. The sun warmed the temperatures up to 60 Thursday.

Equipment manager "Dad" Braisher had to so some switching around for Thursday's drill. Herb Adderley's and Jim Taylor's duffel bags were missing in addition to all of Bill Curry's equipment. The equipment was apparently stolen from the teams training quarters at Stanford Wednesday night. School authorities are trying to track down the missing gear.

Toronto Breaks Montreal String

The Toronto Maple Leafs, winning-streak spoilers for the rest of the National Hockey League, are putting together a neat little string of their own.

The Leafs, who snapped Detroit's seven-game winning string Wednesday, put an end to Montreal's eight-game unbeaten skein 3-2 Thursday and now hace a four - game unbeaten string of their own going.

Detroit bounced back from Wednesday's setback by blanking Boston 2-0 in the only other game played Thursday night.

Your Money's Worth

Pollution, Auto Scrap, Use of Refuse Next Targets of President

BY SYLVIA PORTER

"Beautification" is about to become Big Business in the U.S. Programs to reclaim our natural resources are even now scheduled to absorb hundreds of millions in public and private funds. Inherent in many of the campaigns will be tantalizing profit-making opportunities for business. Inherent also will be clear signals to business "offenders" to take steps today to avoid tangling with beautification regulations tomorrow.

As of now, the campaigns are mostly in the talk stage — but they won't remain there long. Coordination of various individual federal agency efforts to promote beautification is on the way. Under active consideration are new incentives, regulations and special legislation to spur private leadership and cooperation in the drives. Specifically:

War on Pollution: A major federal government program to curb pollution is being put together by administration planners, says a private Prentice-Hall report - and President

Porter

Johnson well may submit a special message to Congress on this next year.

Among the points being discussed are: Tax incentives to industry to stimulate installation of control equipment and extra charges on corporations discharging wastes; stepped up research to find new energy sources to curb pollution of air and water; federal regulation of permissible additives to transportation fuels.

Auto Scrap: The Commerce department is preparing a report on processes which make the use of autos for scrap more profitable. The Interior department is conducting a nationwide survey to show where and why junk cars and scarp are piling up. Other Interior department studies cover ways to expand the demand for scrap and the cheapest ways to get steel, aluminum, copper, lead, and zinc out of junk autos.

Want Lines Underground

Utility Lines: The estimate is that more than 300,000 miles of overhead transmission lines ruin the scenic value of 7 million acres of land and affect the value of many millions more. In some developed areas, it's figured that for every mile of overhead lines, 300 acres of land are "devalued." Bills to be introduced in Congress in 1966 would call for a study of the effect of overhead electric lines on real estate values and tax revenues as well as on natural beauty; initiate Interior department research on cheaper ways to put lines underground; provide amortization deductions and increased tax credit for underground lines.

The Federal Housing Administration already has issued a new regulation under which homebuilders must put utilities underground where possible; the Rural Electrification Administration now requires that the majority of phone lines it finances be underground.

Use of Refuse

Solid Wastes: The approach to the problem of trash, garbage and other solid wastes is, Prentice-Hall points out, how-to-use-it rather than what-to-do-with-it. The Public Health Service, together with the Tennessee Valley Authority, is building a plant to mix raw sewage with city refuse in the hope of getting a cheap fertilizer. One Commerce department agency is providing technical assistance to eliminate refuse banks in old mining regions while another is putting pressure on construction companies to keep their sites tidy.

Strip Mining: Under authority of the Appalachian Development Act, studies are being made of inexpensive ways to rehabilitate abandoned strip and surface mine area New Interior department regulations are coming to prevent permanent marring of the country side.

Tax breaks: There will be increasing emphasis on tax breaks individuals and corporations may get if they contribute money, land or other property to approved conservation projects.

Only a few years ago, it would have seemed impractical idealism to suggest a Big Business of America could be the Beautification of America. A few years from now this will appear only practical realism.

Good Insurance Salesmen Get 'Foot in Door'

Million Dollar Year Men Learn to Use Contacts, Instincts

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — You may work harder but you play more. You use your friends and relatives and social affairs to get your foot in the door. And you learn how to handle the secretary of the man you want to see. You also have an instinct that tells you when this prospect is wasting your time.

This is a composite picture of the men who can sell a million dollars or more of life insurance a year and keep right on doing it. In fact, the going gets easier as your prestige builds up. And your own income goes up, too.

The pictures of these salesmen comes in part from a survey answered by 2,000 members of the Million Dollar Round Table for the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan. The tricks of the game come from several of the men who made the grade.

Deal in Office

About 70 per cent say they need only three to 10 interviews a week to maintain their sales volume. And a majority clinch the deal in the prospect's office rather than his home. If the interview hasn't already been set up, the salesmen treats the secretary with the dignity and respect her importance demands.

The majority of the supersalesmen say they work a 50-hour week, with one or two evenings included in that. But most take from four to six weeks of vacation a year and four per cent take 11 weeks or more.

The average income of the 2,000 is $30,000 a year, and a fourth put their net worth at more than $300,000.

Education Varies

While 60 per cent are college graduates, there are about three per cent who didn't get as far as high school.

Most admit they need friends and relatives to help them find prospects. But they stress that involvement in social events and civil affairs is a prime help. Many build up prestige by moonlighting as lecturers, speakers and authors

Local political affairs command their attention. But only one-fourth were active in 1964 in local, state or national campaigns. A few of the insurance men wind up as state representatives, and more take on local political chores.

For 86 per cent, the biggest field for selling is to existing policyholders as these clients climb the success ladder and garner higher incomes.

Foreign Travel

Some 15 per cent of the club members have clients in other countries. Some of these are Americans who have been sent overseas by their companies. But one salesman says he spends from four to six weeks a year in foreign travel to drum up new business.

How does a million-dollar salesman know when he has a good prospect? One says he does his homework and finds out the man's financial problems before he approaches him. To a complex problem, this salesman already has a complex solution in his pocket.

Good Prospects

Another salesman boasts he can tell a good prospect right off—and also a time-waster. The good one listens. The poor prospector will evade discussion of his own problems, change the topic of conversation, call his secretary on the phone, or other office executives. The salesman quickly calls it quits.

But getting into the million-dollar bracket, and staying there, calls for one more thing: The salesmen say they concentrate on prospects in the higher income brackets. Few sell many policies to anyone making less than $10,000 a year.

Imperialistic Santa Barred From Cuba

Day of Three Kings Also Being 'Phased Out' by Castro

By ISAAC M. FLORES

HAVANA (AP) — "Why won't Santa Claus come this year, Mommy? Has he forgotten us?"

"It's not that he's forgotten us, Alfredito, but, you see, anta Claus is an American and Fidel won't let him in the country."

Thus did a young Cuban mother answer her 5-year-old son asking why he would not receive gifts on Christmas.

Though Jan. 6, the day of the three kings, is the traditional time for gift-giving in Latin-American countries, Cuban children along with other Latins have been accustomed to receiving toys from Santa Claus on Christmas, too.

This year there will be a few toys, and possibly a limited supply of the Cubans' favorite Christmastime dish, roast pork, but the emphasis is on "year-end fiestas."

Toys From Kings

Santa Claus is connected with "Yankee imperialism," therefore no longer mentioned. Most children will receive their toys only from the reyes, the three kings, Jan. 6.

Even that holiday is being phased out. Some children receive their toys immediately after their parents buy them anytime during December or early January. Many mothers, however, have had a difficult time in explaining to their offspring the differences in the celebration of Christmas since communism took over in Cuba.

Once nativity scenes, Christmas trees and religious activities were common. Now smiling Santa Clauses and religious adornment are absent from downtown streets and stores. Christmas carols sung in soft Cuban Spanish no longer fill the air.

But the spirit of giving and receiving is evidently too strong for Communist leaders to abolish. But they've regulated it, along with almost everything else in daily life.

Toys Rationed

Toys went on sale throughout the island early this month under a system of rationing known as equal distribution.

Each child is legally entitled to a "basic toy" costing more than 3 pesos — officially $3 — and two costing less than that. But those are "paper regulation," as one parent put it.

An elderly washerwoman, shopping for her grandchildren after having spent the night on the sidewalk outside a store where toys went on sale at 8 a.m. said bitterly:

"It is just the same as it is with food and clothing. They say 'You are eligible to buy so many dresses and shoes,' but you can't get them at the store. Most of the time the sotres just do not have them."

Although the government claims the Cuban peso buys as much as an American dollar, prices are generally twice what they are in the United States: 5 pesos for the smallest and cheapest plastic doll with a "Made in China" label; 15 pesos for a wooden toy rifle, East Germany, and 18 pesos for a fire truck, Poland.

Children over 13 are not entitled to toys.

Even though the special SK-12 costs you nothing extra, it can keep your entire fuel system free of the harmful formation of rust, gum, sludge that cause most sudden furnace failures.

Since the fuel pipe in your furnace ends in an opening no bigger than a pin point, even a tiny article of sludge or gum can clog your furnace burner. With SK-12, in Skelly Furnace oil, you can prevent most cases of sudden stoppage due to a clogged nozzle, filter screen or fuel line.

You can obtain Skelly Furnace Oil, with SK-12 additive, from the Jenkel Oil Co., 1201 N. Badger Ave. Phone number of the firm is 9-1144. Emergency service — in case you run out of oil—may be obtained by calling 2-9584.

Wisconsin's Health

Fluoride Experiment Started 20 Years Ago in Wisconsin

BY E. H. JORRIS M.D.
State Health Officer

Within a few weeks Wisconsin will complete two decades of experience with a far-reaching development in public health. That development was the fluoridation of public water supplies, which was first authorized in the state by Sheboygan in 1945 and actually begun in February 1946. Sheboygan was one of the first three cities in the United States to fluoridate its public water supply.

Fluoride is a chemical compound which when added to the water supply hardens and strengthens the teeth so that they resist decay. In many areas there is a natural fluoride content in the water. The decay-preventive action of natural water with an adequate fluoride concentration was discovered more than 50 years ago.

Started in 1930's

By the mid-1930's several studies of fluorides and their effect on dental health were underway, and in 1935 the state Board of Health tested all public water supplies in Wisconsin to determine their fluoride content. Results showed a natural fluoride belt extending from Oconto to Union Grove, with fluoride concentrations running as high as two and a half parts per million in the water supply of the city of Green Bay.

Dental surveys and studies established that a fluoride concentration of one part per million was most effective. And in 1945 the State Board of Health and the Wisconsin State Dental Society adopted resolutions recommending the addition of fluoride to all public water supplies that did not show a concentration of one part per million.

Checkups on the experience of Sheboygan children showed that before fluoridation dental care cost $172.32 per child from birth through age 14. Now, with fluoridation, the average cost is $46.39 — a cash saving of $124.93! Other studies in Amery and in Antigo show similar decay-preventive results of fluoridation.

Sheboygan in 1945

Since Sheboygan "started the ball rolling" back in 1945 it has been joined by 192 other Wisconsin municipalities that now add fluorides to their public water supply. In addition, there are 43 communities in the state whose water contains an adequate natural fluoride concentration high enough to provide decay-preventive action.

With the 10 communities that began fluoridating their public water supplies during 1965, we now have 236 municipalities in the state with water supplies containing an adequate fluoride content. Whether we look at it in terms of money saved on dental bills or pain prevented, it has been a productive 20 years on the dental front.

8 Wolf River Counties to Seek $106,000 Project Aids

Stream Bank Work to be Continued

The eight counties represented in the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission will seek $106,000 in cost sharing through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) on 141 projects in 1966

The eight county committees

Pictures of several Wolf River projects on pages 4 and 5.

are coordinating efforts in obtaining funds and improving stream banks on the river and its tributaries

Aid will be sought this year for the first-time for non-farmland owners along the river

Joseph Rickert, manager of the Outagamie ASCS office, said the federal funds will be allotted to 100 farms employing one or more of seven practices

Wildlife Food Patches

Heavy accent will be on stream bank protection, wildlife food patches and level ditching Together they account for $91,000 of the proposed allotment.

Other projects include wildlife ponds, wildlife shrub planting, windbreaks and tree planting.

This year 26 farms in Waupaca, Winnebago and Outagamie Counties received cost sharing for stream bank stabilization and level ditching for wild life. Much of the work was completed in recent weeks

Agency Coordination

The plan will be implemented by a coordinated effort of the ASCS, Soil Conservation Service and agricultural agents in each county This will be the first attempt at gaining such funds at an 8-county basis.

Participants in the 1965 program in Outagamie by township, the practice and funds allotted were.

Bovina — Stream bank protection — Alvina Koepke, $1,760; C W Defferding, $1,108, Leo Wilz, $1,200; Ervin Lange, $1,440. Level ditching — Percy Braatz, $800; Jack Lammers, $640 Ditching and stream bank — Clayton Allender, $750 and $1,040.

Electronic Soil Tests Are Being Promoted

Information Meetings Being Scheduled For Communities in Waupaca County

Electronic record soil test results are being discussed with Waupaca County farmers by the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office in Manawa.

Joe Walker, Waupaca County Agricultural, Agent, said they had more accurate and usable results than previous tests.

The new soil test is based not only on soil type but on a corrective application which is designed to build soil fertility levels to at least 50 pounds of available phosphorous and 200 pounds of available potash The maintenance requirement is merely the amount of fertilizer used by the particular crop for one crop year.

New Information

This new test information will be covered by a series of three meetings held in January in different locations in the county. Extension Specialist Conrad Olson of the Soils Department will be on hand to discuss the new soil test results. These meeting dates have been set for mid-January and further information will be given later.

Meetings are set for Clintonville, Manawa and Waupaca. The new report appears to be more complicated than it is and, once thoroughly understood, it is easy to use in determing fertilizer needs These fertilizer needs, incidently, should be figured this winter based on present soil test results and your cropping program.

Hog Corn Ratio Is Factor In Finding Farmer Profit

Calumet Agent Comments on Market's High Prices, 1948 Level

CHILTON — The hog-corn ratio is the factor which determines the farmer's profit, according to Orrin Meyer, Calumet County Agricultural Agent

Meyer, commenting on the high hog prices last week on the Chicago market, said they hit $30 a hundredweight, highest since the $31 85 of 1948

He said that normally prices decline at this time of year and then recover to peak in late summer. A year ago hogs were Fellows hall.

Farrowings Down

Reports from swine sales this year indicated farrowings were down 12 per cent "It isn't always the number of hogs or their price on the block which determines profit," Meyer said

"For instance, the $15 hogs in 1960 were just as profitable as the $23 hogs in 1948 The hog-corn ratio is the number of bushels of corn equal in value to 100 pounds of live weight hog in terms of prices received by farmers

"In 1948 the ratio was 1 17 and 1 17 2 in 1960," he explained

Excellent Crop

"Corn is selling at $1 26 a bushel Nationally we have had an excellent crop so corn should not go too high

"If hogs sold at $25 a cwt and corn $1 26, for example, divide $1 26 into $25 and you get a ratio of 1 20 It should be at least 1 12 to be profitable," he said

"Hogs revolve in circles of high to low from three to six years and as we improve our technology it will be an even shorter cycle," he explained

Most Calumet farmers raise cattle because they can "usually raise hay"

"But there is an excellent place in Calumet County for brood sows as well as raising breeding stock Brood sows do well on grass and corn silage If you like hogs, go into them long range," Meyer advised

...m Banks Are Being Restored

Stream Bank Improvements along the Wolf River have been progressing this fall. The banks are cut back and sloped and shoreline trees removed before the hard freeze sets in. Rocks are then deposited on the banks.

About 26 farmers requested cost sharing for stream bank improvement and level ditching during 1965 and received 80 per cent of the costs through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Outagamie County.

Waupaca and Winnebago Counties also participated in the project. All are expected to continue next year.

Picture at upper left shows a finished project on a Hortonville area farm owned by Dr. Ben Belinski of Kaukauna. The Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission has been asked to seek aid for non-farm owners so that contiguous properties can be developed.

The high level of the stream this year has overflowed the banks at right. When the water recedes, however, the bank remains because it has been stabilized.

At the Ray Gomm farm, lower left, north of Shiocton, the water has been cutting into the steep embankment. Projects are laid out by the Soil Conservation Service and completed by private contractors.

Conservationist Vernon Geiger points out the benefits of a stabilized bank when water runs off the land and does not pull the top soil with it.

The project at Elmer McKeever's Landing, lower right, near Hortonville, will improve the banks at a popular fishing bend in the river. Water undercuts the land on the inside curves of the river and eats away at the shore and trees.

GOP Left Speechless By Election Disaster

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Republicans this has been the year of the big silence. Their 1964 election disaster not only shattered them, it left them practically speechless.

In 1965 occasional Republicans have made occasional statements but their performance as a party for the year can be described as enormously silent.

Their criticism of the Democrats has been feeble and their own proposals have been just about nonexistent, except for the war in Viet Nam. There they want President Johnson to be tougher.

True, they were hugely outnumbered by the Democrats in Congress but that didn't mean they had to stay tongue-tied. They did, though. As they tried to pick themselves up off the political floor they had two hopes:

Seek Issues

To try to glue the splintered remnants of the party back together again and to find some issues they might be able to use against the Democrats in the 1966 congressional election year.

If they've found any big ones, they haven't unveiled them.

GOP Chairman Ray C. Bliss, with the sturdy task of trying to reconcile the various groups who parade under the Republican banner, or would like to, invited the various splinters to come into and under the Republican tent.

But then he ran into something like this: those Republicans who don't want any part of the John Birch Society or any part of it near the GOP tent, much less under it.

Some GOP governors want the party to denounce the Birch Society by name. But the party needs all the support it can get, including contributions, and so this happened this week:

Extremism Declaration

Republican congressional leaders and some governors met to draw up their declaration on extremism. They simply criticized "radical or extremist" groups that try to infiltrate the GOP for their own ends. No mention of Birchites.

And the Birchites, through their public relations director, John Rousselot, said they were mighty pleased the GOP had taken this stand.

Whereupon the Republican House leader, the not-particularly fiery Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, said that if Rousselot endorsed the antiextremist statement, "I have grave doubts he understood its meaning."

There couldn't have been any misunderstanding if the Republican leaders had just ventured to be specific. And the Republican Senate leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said: "Who is this Rousselot?"

Only Leader

If he didn't know, he's probbly the only leader in either party who didn't.

This is only the latest example of how the party has pussyfooted all year.

Some GOP leaders have expressed the belief the party would do better in the 1966 elections, that the voters will be anxious to preserve the two-party system.

But a political party can only justify its existence if it expresses the thinking and wishes of voters. In 1965 the GOP leaders were simply trying to put their party together again.

As for the 1968 presidential race — there isn't one Republican in sight who at this time could be clearly tagged the party's likely candidate, although that's not unusual this far ahead of time.

Retiring, He Wants to Sell 200 Blockheads

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Philadelphia hat store owner has 200 blockheads for sale.

Joseph W. Duff Sr., 70, says he is trying to sell 200 of the egg-shaped blocks of wood, which are used as forms on which felt hats are steamed and fitted. Duff is closing his business next March after 58 years in the city.

Thousands Dead in East Pakistan as Cyclone Hits Coast

News Agency Reports Total May Far Exceed 2,000

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — The Pakistani government rushed relief teams and supplies today to the cyclone-devastated coast of East Pakistan where many thousands were reported dead.

The Pakistani News Agency reported that 2,000 persons were killed but other reports said the death toll was much higher. The cyclone's twisting 100-mile-an-hour winds, followed by a 12-foot tidal wave and heavy rains, devastated crops and villages.

The governor of East Pakistan flew from Dacca to Chittagong to direct relief operations.

The cyclone started in the Bay of Bengal, which is formed by India, East Pakistan and Burma. The storm hit at Cox's Bazar, moved up the coast through Chittagong, about 200 miles east of Calcutta and then blew itself out as it moved northeast.

Search for Survivors

Naval units searched for survivors on the many small islands dotting the coast. Two hundred deep - sea fishermen were reported missing off Sonadia Island.

Persons reaching Chittagong from Cox's Bazar, 80 miles down the coast, said they saw scattered bodies. The news agency said the British ship Star Pink picked up five survivors in the Bay of Bengal Wednesday.

Details of the devastation on the islands were sketchy because communications were cut with the mainland port of Chittagong.

Hundreds Homeless

Hundreds were homeless, and 60 per cent of the houses were wrecked in Cox's Bazar, which has a population of about 6,000. The airfield was reported under a foot of water.

Unofficial reports said thousands of persons perished on Maheshkhali Island. The cyclone reportedly destroyed 75 per cent of Sonadia's crops and houses. A great loss of livestock was feared on other islands.

It was the area's eighth cyclone disaster in recent years. The last one killed 1,700 persons in the Chittagong district last May.

LBJ, Wilson Meet Again On Big Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson meet again today, their attention believed focused on four issues.

Reportedly high on the list for their discussions are the Rhodesian declaration of independence from Britain, the sharing of nuclear arms with the Atlantic Alliance, proposed British defense cutbacks and disarmament.

The two men met privately for an hour Thursday, then were joined by advisers for another 40 minutes.

Americans sitting in were presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy; Undersecretary of State George W. Ball; David K. E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to London, and Francis Bator, deputy special assistant to the President.

Gemini 6 Pair Leaves Wasp For Florida

Further Debriefing At Cape Kennedy Slated for Spacemen

ABOARD USS WASP (AP) — Astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford left the Wasp today en route to Bermuda and Cape Kennedy, Fla., for further medical studies and technical debriefing.

The Gemini 6 spacemen boarded separate Navy seaplanes in the same good spirits they showed Thuprsday when they stepped from the Gemini 6 to the carrier deck.

Each flew in the copilot seats of the aircraft. They were to transfer at Bermuda to a larger plane for the flight to Cape Kennedy.

Schirra and Stafford, wearing aqua-blue coveralls, left the Wasp at 7:10 a.m. The huge vessel was 410 miles southwest of Bermuda.

Schirra, a Navy captain, and Stafford, an Air Force major, radioed the Wasp Thursday while still bobbing in the Atlantic Ocean after splashdown. Permission to come aboard was quickly granted and they found a red carpet leading their way to the sick bay for preliminary medical examinations.

"Exactly what we had expected after one day," Dr. Bill Carpentier, National Aeronautics and Space Administration physician, reported, as Stafford lighted up his first cigar after the flight.

Call Home

Each pilot telephoned his wife, giving a three-minute personal account of the historic flight and rendezvous. An expected telephone call from the White House did not materialize although press scretary Bill D. Moyers said President Johnson got a personal report on the flight from NASA Administrator James E. Webb.

Later the astronauts reappeared on the Wasp hangar deck wearing light blue coveralls. They climbed back in the capsule to make a final inspection of Gemini 6 and to pose for photographers.

"It's nice to be here," Schirra said, patting the scarred and scorched heat shield of the capsule that bore the brunt of the fiery re-entry.

Dr. Howard Minners said both astronauts were in good shape, but as expected showed a slight increase in their heart rates.

Recovery Crews, Wasp Move Into Area Planned For Spacecraft's Landing

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The Gemini 7 pilots—assured that the power-producing fuel cells of their space ship would not fail them—hurtled confidently onward today to the big goal of 14 days in space.

After a night of worry over the power system, flight directors determined that it would hold up, and gave the world space endurance champions Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. a "go" for the full distance of 5,149,400 miles.

This would bring them to a landing in the Atlantic at 9:05 a.m. EST Saturday, in the same area where spacemen Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford brought the Gemini 6 down Thursday near the waiting aircraft carrier Wasp.

Straight Downhill

"There's no reason," astronaut Elliot M. See Jr. told Borman and Lovell in a statewide pass this morning, "that we shouldn't go straight on downhill from now on."

Gemini 7 entered its 193rd orbit at 10:25 a.m. EST.

The Gemini 7 astronauts were so sure of themselves that they made a bet with Schirra and Stafford during their historic rendezvous in space Wednesday that they could make a more accurate landing. Gemini 6 missed the aircraft carrier Wasp by less than 15 miles.

The stakes were not disclosed but Borman asked today for an accurate figure on the Gemini 6 splashdown point. "There's a lot riding on that," he told mission control.

Ideal weather conditions that prevailed during the Gemini 6 re-entry will continue Saturday, forecasters said.

Cautious Watch

After keeping cautious watch on the power system through the night, flight directors gave the green light for a full mission to Borman and Lovell as they soared near Bermuda.

A warning light, supposed to indicate fuel cell trouble although ground station monitors said the unit's power output was normal, flashed on Thursday. It finally flickered out about 2:20 a.m. today but started burning anew before completion of another orbit.

John D. Hodge, the overnight flight director, said the cell nevertheless would last at least 150 hours beyond the end of the scheduled 14-day mission.

"The Blue (midnight to 8 a.m. control) team is happy to give you a go-ahead," Hodge told command pilot Borman.

Splashdown Area

This sent Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell streaking on toward an intended splashdown in the area where Gemini 6 descended Thursday.

They have made a bet that they will land even closer to the aircraft carrier Wasp than the Gemini 6 pilots did Thursday after the historic rendezvous of the two spacecraft.

Grenade Thrown Into Truck

Saigon Terrorism Continues As VC Marks Anniversary

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A teen-age terrorist tossed a grenade into a truckload of U.S. soldiers in Saigon today, injuring 12 GIs.

It was Saigon's fourth straight day of terrorism marking the fifth anniversary Monday of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The would-be assassin, about 15 or 16, fled in the confusion on the busy street. Only one of the Americans was seriously injured.

In North Viet Nam, Communist MIGs took to the air — but cautiously — during another day of heavy bombardment.

American pilots reported sighting seven Soviet-built MIG17s which kept a discreet distance while apparently trailing the U.S. jets. An Air Force spokesman said the American planes were too short on fuel to take on the Communist jets.

2 Planes Lost

Two U.S. planes were lost in other operations.

A Navy jet returning from a mission over North Viet Nam crashed into the ramp of the flight deck of the carrier Kitty Hawk and plunged into the sea. The pilot was presumed dead.

Enemy ground fire apparently nailed an Air Force F5 Freedom fighter jet which crashed on an attack mission 15 miles from Saigon. An Army helicopter picked up the injured pilot but he died later.

In the ground war, a Viet Cong battalion badly mauled a government company 22 miles northwest of the capital, inflicting heavy casualties. The Reds fled before a relief column came to the scene.

Express Concern

The appearance of the MIGs came after U.S. officials had expressed some concern about probes of American air preparedness by Communist jets. The Air Force did not specify the nationality of the MIGs sighted over North Viet Nam.

U.S. planes dropped 73 tons of bombs on the Communist North. Spokesmen said they hit bridges, roads and buildings in the Dien Bien Phu area, near the Laotian border, and the Vinh sector, 170 miles south of Hanoi. No strikes were reported against the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex, which was raided Wednesday with an attack on a key power station outside Haiphong, the country's major port.

In the South, American aircraft aimed at Viet Cong river shipping in the Mekong River delta south of Saigon. Pilots claimed 24 sampans were sunk, seven of them motorized.

The latest outburst of terrorism in Saigon came despite maximum security precautions. The blast occurred half a block from a U.S. Army intelligence compound where a Viet Cong bomb injured four Americans Thursday.

Birthday Greeting

The U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Brigade sent a noisy birthday greeting of its own to the Viet Cong. On a patrol near Ben Cat, 35 miles north of Saigon, a battalion discovered a Viet Cong munitions dump with 6,000 pounds of explosives.

Battalion demolition men poured the ammunition into a huge hole and exploded it. The blast shook the ground for miles around in the heavily infiltrated Viet Cong area and sent up a tower of smoke.

A police official said maximum precautions were being

Safety Council Predicts Yule Road Death Toll

CHICAGO (AP)—Between 560 and 660 persons may die in traffic accidents during the nation's three-day Christmas weekend, according to the National Safety Council.

The council said Thursday that American motorists would drive an estimated 11.3 billion miles during the period, from 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday, Dec. 23, to midnight Sunday, Dec. 26. On an average, non-holiday weekend motorists travel some 8.9 billion miles.

Records indicate Christmas is the most dangerous holiday for motorists, council President Howard Pyle said.

With Great Britain

U.A.R. Announces Break in Relations

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic formally advised Britain today of a break in relations effective at sunset. This is the fifth African nation to sever diplomatic ties with the British over Rhodesia.

Foreign Minister Mohammed Hassan El Zayat summoned British Ambassador Sir George Middleton to advise him of the rupture. He said the step was taken because Britain had failed to take action "against the white minority government of Rhodesia."

Earlier Ghana, Tanzania, Guinea and Mali heeded the call by the Organization of African Unity for its 36 members to break with London unless the British overthrew Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian government by last Wednesday.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that four more OAU members, Nigeria, Mauritania, Senegal and the Congo Republic —Brazzaville, were also breaking with Britain. Senegal denied it would do so now, and there was no confirmation on the others.

Rhodesia's white minority government declared independence from Britain on Nov. 11 after negotiations broke down over Britain's insistence that Rhodesia's four million Africans be guaranteed ultimate control of the government. There are 220,000 whites in Rhodesia.

Britain has imposed economic sanctions against Rhodesia but refuses to use force to bring down the Smith regime. The African nations are in no position to mount a successful military operation against Rhodesia.

The U.A.R.'s decision to break surprised British diplomats in Cairo. After the OAU's deadline expired Wednesday, Egyptian officials said their government would postpone the break and backed Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie's call for another OAU conference on Dec. 21 to reconsider the matter.

Ghana and Tanzania are members of the British Commonwealth, and Tanzania appeared careful to preserve its Commonwealth ties in announcing its decision. But Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah told his cheering Parliament that his government was considering leaving the Commonwealth as well.

15 Injured as Plane Breaks Up

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A huge C97 Air Force four-engine plane broke in two as it landed at Carswell Air Force Base this morning, injuring 15 of the 20 persons aboard.

Col. Jim Gelley, director of base operations at Carswell, said the plane may have had gear trouble.

He said the plane cracked in half behind the cockpit area and one wing shattered. The injuries were described as minor.

Milwaukee Man Killed in Combat

1,241 This Year

U. S. Losses in War Lower Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. losses in the Viet Nam war are lower than officials anticipated, it was learned today.

When the Pentagon laid out plans last summer for the big buildup in Viet Nam it cranked into its calculations an estimate of how many Americans might be expected to be killed.

While the figures are secret, it is known that fewer American servicemen have been killed so far than had been predicted.

The Pentagon reported Thursday that U.S. combat deaths as of last Monday totaled 1,496 dating to January 1961.

Of these, 1,241 have been killed this year — most of them since midsummer.

Red Losses Higher

At the same time, official estimates peg Communist losses at about 35,000, more than double the 17,000 reported killed in 1964.

This total is based on body count and there is a belief that many more Viet Cong were killed but that their bodies were carried away by their comrades.

Currently, Communist losses are said to be running about 10-1 over U.S. battle deaths.

Intensified ground and air operations are sure to bring a rising curve of casualties.

Thus far, U.S. battle deaths in Viet Nam still are well below those suffered in any major U.S. war of modern times. In Korea, for example, the United States lost 33,629 men.

The toll of wounded reached 6,863 as of last Monday. More than 5,000 of these wounds occurred in 1965.

The roster of missing has reached 126 men and 25 are believed held prisoner.

In addition to the killed in action, 437 Americans had died in Viet Nam from a variety of non-combat causes such as aircraft accidents and auto and truck crashes.

FWD Corp's Order Backlog Hits $30 Million

1965 Sales Highest In Any Peace-Time Year; Profit Up

CLINTONVILLE — The consolidated backlog of orders of the FWD Corp. is approximately $30,000,000, according to a report by L. A. DePolis, president, to FWD shareholders in the firm's 56th annual report.

DePolis reported fiscal 1965 consolidated sales of $38,761,946 were the highest in any peacetime year, and the net profit of $890,329 is an all-time record for the company. Fiscal 1965 profit before income taxes was $1,568,329 compared with $1,318,678 in 1964. Net earnings equal $2.62 per share of common stock compared with $1.97 for fiscal 1964.

Earnings per share for both years are computed on the number of shares outstanding after giving effect to the 5 per cent stock dividend declared Sept. 15, 1965, payable Nov. 5, 1965.

High Level Rate

He reported that the order rate at all plants continues at a high level and the unfilled order backlog was $19,612,500 on Sept. 30, 1965 compared with $19,600,000 at the end of fiscal 1964. Recent orders have increased the consolidated backlog to approximately $30 million.

DePolis said FWD-Clintonville is showing substantial growth in the markets served with heavy duty, specialized vehicles. Based on an industry report prepared by the Department of Commerce, total domestic heavy duty truck sales were up nationally, 4.1 per cent for the 12 month-period ending Sept. 30, 1965. During this same period FWD domestic truck sales were up 21 per cent.

DePolis said 'the increased export activity reported last year has begun to pay off with sizable orders being received from South America, Puerto Rico, Africa, Australia, the Government to Sell CCC's Wheat Stocks

Move Designed to Stabilize Market, Says USDA Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a means of providing adequate supplies at reasonable and stable prices, the Agriculture Department has announced it will sell for unrestricted use all qualities of wheat from government-owned stocks held by the Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC).

This was the department's second move within less than a month to sell government wheat. On Nov. 23, it announced it would sell higher protein wheats for unrestricted use. The department said Wednesday's action was broader than the previous one.

One department official said, the new move was to "stabilize the wheat market and prevent wild fluctuation of prices."

The government wheat will be offered at market prices or at 108 per cent of the current support price of $1.25 a bushel plus carrying charges, whichever is higher.

Total U.S. wheat stocks are now estimated at 1.5 billion bushels.

Lawrence Fees For 1966-67 To Increase

$2,525 Rate Is 63 Per Cent of Cost, Says Tarr

A $2,525 comprehensive fee has been announced for Lawrence University in 1966-67, a $100 increase over the current year, according to President Curtis W. Tarr.

"This represents about 63 per cent of the total institutional cost of educating a student for one year," President Tarr commented.

"For families who suffer from the burden of the costs of higher education, there will be relief in three forms. The federal government recently has announced a program of federal grants, and Lawrentians will be able to apply for this assistance. In addition, the state has announced its own program for resident Wisconsin students.

Lawrence University has been working to improve its own source of endowed funds to support scholarships for worthy students. Fortunately, some substantial gifts for this purpose have been made to our endowment during the past year, and we continue to search for additional support."

The Lawrence president reported in a letter to parents of present students on the success of the $4 million Ford Foundation campaign goal in June, which has financed several campus buildings, Youngchild Hall of Science, the renovation of Memorial Chapel, a new heating plant, and a Health Center now under construction. Plans are now underway for a new women's dormitory to eliminate all temporary housing on the campus, and a food service center to replace outgrown facilities in Brokaw and Sage Halls.

"Last year we were able to continue to increase faculty salaries and to retain skilled members of our faculty despite offers from other distinguished institutions, the president reported. "Together with this increase in faculty salaries, we were able to reduce the teaching load for members of our faculty, to maintain nearly the same average class size, and to reduce slightly the ratio between students and faculty.

"Last year 298 senior students enrolled in tutorial work, taking advantage of one of our most exciting scholarly opportunities. Last year we offered 516 courses to our student body, a variety which one usually would expect only at a much larger institution," said Dr. Tarr.

Illinois Cowboy Found Guilty Of Manslaughter in Knifing

Sentencing of Bernard Gallagher Will Follow Court Investigation

WAUPACA — Bernard E. Gallagher, 21, Millstadt, Ill. cowboy, was found guilty of manslaughter Thursday following 10½ hours of deliberation by a jury of 10 men and two women.

County Judge Wendell McHenry ordered a pre-sentence investigation and ordered Gallagher held in the county jail until sentencing. Judge McHenry said he expected the pre-sentence investigation to be completed by today or tomorrow. Maximum sentence for manslaughter is 10 years in prison.

Charges against Gallagher stem from the fatal stabbing of James Genke, 22, route 1, New London, July 4th.

Testimony was heard Wednesday and for an hour Thursday before the case went to the jury about 11:25 a.m. Thursday morning.

Jury Sent Back

After 9½ hours of deliberation, the jury was called to the court room and asked whether any progress was being made. Jury foreman Raymond V. Prahl, New London, indicated that none had been made and a decision had not been reached.

Judge McHenry sent the jury back to the jury room with the statement: "You are a responsible jury and can make a responsible decision just as well as a new jury."

Wednesday's testimony explained to the jury how the fatal stabbing occurred on a Manawa street during a rodeo last summer. Witnesses said the stabbing occurred when Genke disapproved of Gallagher and two friends associating with Genke's 15-year-old sister at a dance.

Saw Scuffle

After a scuffle on the street, some witnesses said, Genke was stabbed in the abdomen, rushed to the New London Community Hospital and died there July 15 from the wound.

Witnesses also included Dr. H. C Schmallenberg, New London, who operated on Genke and Dr. Harold Wagner, a Kenosha pathologist, who explained the cause of death.

Gallagher's mother and employer took the stand briefly to testify about Gallagher's past conduct.

Mrs. Joan Pluedman, 22, 1019 S. Bartlett St., Shawano, testified Thursday she had been with Genke's wife and sister as the three walked on Bridge Street, and had seen Genke run up to Gallagher and the two scuffled briefly.

Earlier testimony from two policemen said there had been no struggle and that Gallagher, when he saw Genke running behind him, turned and struck a blow with his knife. Gallagher had testified there had been a struggle and that Genke had struck first and he had used the knife in an attempt to frighten Genke.

KC Official Says Statement Presumptuous

Denies Authority Of Port Consultant To Speak for Firm

A statement made Tuesday to the Outagamie County Board which implied that Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah, was considering moving its aviation operations from the Winnebago County airport to the Outagamie airport was termed Thursday as "presumptuous" by an official of the paper company.

J. L. Donoghue, president of the Ralph H. Burke Co., Park Ridge, Ill., airport consultant for Outagamie County, told the board that Kimberly-Clark will not move its aviation operations to the Outagamie airport until after a crosswind runway has been built.

"As soon as the runway has been built," Donoghue said, "they will close down operations at the airport they use now, build their own hangar at your airport and move up here."

Roger A. Baird, secretary of Kimberly-Clark, said today that "the statement of Mr. J. L. Donoghue before the Outagamie County Board. . .insofar as it relates to Kimberly-Clark Corp., is completely without foundation and most presumptuous.

"Several months ago," Baird said, "the aviation committee of the county board sought to discuss with Kimberly-Clark the possibility of moving its aircraft operation from Winnebago to Outagamie airport. At this time the aviation committee was informed that Kimberly-Clark saw no point in even discussing a possibility until the Outagamie County airport had an adequate crosswind runway. Kimberly-Clark has heard nothing further from the aviation committee since that time."

Sulphite Pulp Manufacturers To Step Up Research Program

Annual Budget for Study More Than Quarter-Million Dollars

Corporation heads of the 25 member mills of Sulphite Pulp Manufacturers' Research League at their annual meeting in Appleton this week authorized expansion of the 26-year-old industry organization's technical field.

They forecast the direction of expansion by indicating their intention to change the name to Pulp Manufacturers Research League, and they raised the annual research budget to well above a quarter-million dollars.

Stanton W. Mead, president of Consolidated Papers, Inc., Wisconsin Rapids, retired after 10 terms as league president. Elected to succeed him was Loren V. Forman, vice president of Scott Paper Co., Philadelphia.

"In the past several months the league has gotten a full-scale research program under way to find processes of treating dilute pulp mill effluents for which practical in-plant treatments have not been developed," Forman said.

"These fluids are too dilute for processing with the successful techniques which league research has already provided and by which several members are utilizing full-strength spent sulphite liquor for making useful, salable products.

"By their very volume these dilute fluids contribute a measurable quantity of oxygen and solids loading to streams," Forman explained. "Leaders in our industry foresee that future growth of population and industry will create a real need to cut the discharge of such dilute effluents as pulping rinse waters, bleachery wastes, and condensates from the evaporators that the mills use for non-pollutional processing of their strong liquors. Findings by league research scientists already indicate that processes for successfully treating the dilute wastes from sulphite pulping are equally applicable to dilute wastes from other types of pulping. The league therefore plans to include these other effluents in its research and development program."

Chairman Retires

J. M. Holderby of St. Regis Paper, Rhinelander, retired as chairman of the league's technical committee. The company executives elected Walter A. Sherman, who is mill manager of the Kansas City Star Co. Flambeau Paper Division, Park Falls, to succeed Holderby as technical chairman.

Other league officers elected were:

Vice president, Forrest H. Werling, vice president research and engineering Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah; secretary, John G. Strange, president, the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton; treasurer, Peter M. Chiuminatto, manager of administrative services, the Charmin Paper Products Co., Green Bay.

He said FWD Wagner (Portland, Ore.), in achieving record sales and earnings, has outgrown its facilities, and approximately 20,000 square feet of new space is under construction. The new building will be used for warehousing and light metal fabrication. This will release a substantial amount of urgently needed prime manufacturing space in the main building.

FWD Corp. (Canada) Ltd., which also had record sales and profits, continues to expand and has recently occupied 20,400 square feet of new plant which was completed during the latter part of fiscal 1965.

The firm plans to build the FWD Wagner line in Canada. A number of these machines were placed in service during the past year and manufacture of selected models in 1966 is being planned at this time, DePolis reported.

Of the $30,000,000 backlog of unfilled orders, Lloyd Pernot, general sales manager, explained that $23,000,000 is with FWD Corp. and concerns construction, highway and utility vehicles, crane carriers, export and government orders.

Pernot added that an additional $5,000,000 is in orders for trucks and parts in the Seagrave Division and the remaining backlog is with FWD Wagner and FWD Corp. in Canada.

City-County CD Director Assumes Duties

Howard Rathbun, Army Veteran, Picks Lee Penney as Aide

Howard J. Rathbun assumed duty Thursday as the new Appleton-Outagamie County Civil Defense director, replacing Lee E. Penney who has been named assistant director.

Rathbun, a three-year resident of Appleton, was named to the post early last month. But did not take over the job until his retirement from the Army. Rathbun, 49, was one of six persons who has applied for the job.

Penney, who quit the post he held for five years to become sales manager for Appleton Marble and Granite Works, will serve as assistant civil defense director in a voluntary capacity. His appointment was made by Rathbun.

22 Years Service

The new director, a Milwaukee native, was in the armed services for 22 years prior to his retirement this month. He was an executive officer in the Second Howitzer Battalion, 2th Artillery in Germany before coming to Appleton where he became adviser at the Armed Forces Reserve Center.

Rathbun and his family, including a wife and one daughter, live at 48 S. Meadow Drive.

The Civil Defense staff including the network of volunteers, will remain unchanged, Rathbun said today. The only member of the office staff, besides Rathbun, is his secretary, Diane Hooyman.

A meeting of all Civil Defense personnel in the county will be called soon, Rathbun said.

The new director said he plans to attend a Civil Defense management and operations course at Battle Creek, Mich., within the next few months.

Programs for High School Teachers

Grants Totaling $53,959 Awarded To Lawrence for Summer Studies

Three grants have been awarded to Lawrence University in support of specialized summer programs for high school teachers, Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, president, has announced.

The grants include $53,959 from the U. S. Office of Education under the National Defense Education Act for a summer institute in English; $40,660 from the National Science Foundation for a summer institute in mathematics and $38,110 also from NSF for a summer institute in botany.

All three institutes are designed to improve the competence of senior high school teachers in their respective fields.

The seven-week English institute will be held from June 20 to Aug. 5, under the direction of Dr. Herbert K. Tjossem, associate professor of English. Participants will be 40 English teachers, to be chosen primarily from the Wisconsin and upper Michigan area, who will receive teachers to attend, receiving tution and support under $27,300 of the grant.

The institute staff, in addition to Dr. Tjossem, will be Dr. William M. Schutte, chairman of the English department; Dr. Thomas R. Dale, and Dr. Bertrand A. Goldgar, associate professor of English, all of Lawrence, and Mrs. Gladys Veidemanis, chairman of the English department at Oshkosh High School. Five guest lecturers, will contribute to the program.

Purpose of the institute is to improve participants' teaching by increasing their knowledge of the elements of composition and their abilities in literary analysis. Experienced teachers who have a minor or less in English will be offered classes in rhetoric, composition and literature and workshops in instruction.

The eight-week mathematics institute, to run from June 20 to Aug. 12, will be directed by Dr. William M. Sanders, associate professor of mathematics. Stipends have been provided for 30 teachers to attend, receiving eight semester hours of credit.

The staff will include Dr. Sanders, Dr. Andrew C. Berry and a guest lecturer. The program's aim is to improve the training of high school mathematics teachers and to offer them a greater understanding of basic concepts in mathematics.

Participants will be experienced teachers who have not as yet completed all the courses recommended for senior high school by the Committee for the Undergraduate Program in Mathematics of the Mathematical Association of America.

The botany institute, which is a renewal of a similar program held last year, will run from June 20 to Aug. 6. Dr. Bradner W. Coursen, associate professor of biology, will continue as director, assisted by a staff of four and six lecturers.

Staff members are Dr. Frederick B. Bevis, Grand Valley State College, Allendale, Mich.; Dr. James R. Brennan, Bridgewater, Massachusetts State College; Dr. Donald A. Eggert, Southern Illinois University; Dr. John A. Schmitt, Ohio State University, and Dr. Coursen.

Purpose of the institute is to give experienced teachers a greater familiarity with the major areas of botany and of current research in the field. It aims ultimately to stimulate student interest in botany by increasing the competence of biology teachers, many of whom are primarily zoologists.

Participants will be 30 biology teachers, supported by stipends amounting to $26.580 of the grant. They may receive eight semester hours credit for the program.

Knitting Mill Fire Controlled At Janesville

One fireman, William Lafferty, was injured in a fall and taken to the hospital with a wrist injury.

JANESVILLE (AP) — Fire raged out of control today at the main plant of Norwood Mills Inc., at the north city limits.

All available units of the Janesville Fire Department were fighting the blaze and assistance was asked from nearby Beloit. Portions of the roof and walls of the plant had collapsed.

The fire was discovered shortly after 7 a.m. Larry Nunn, an employe working in the building at the time, said there was a "large flash" in the upper section and the entire first floor burst into flame.

The factory, employing about 350 persons, was built approximately one year ago. A sprinkler system was to have been installed next week. The plant is a 130,000 square foot metal structure, consisting of a main floor and basement, with no partitions.

Klan Head Calls Johnson Top Recruiter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton says that from now on any member of the United Klans of America indicted on a charge involving acts of violence and terrorism "will be immediately suspended from membership."

"If subsequent investigation strongly indicates such member is guilty of the charge," he told a news conference Thursday, "the United Klans of America will cooperate fully with the local authorities and make available to such local authorities the services of its attorney, Mr. Lester V. Chalmers, to assist in the prosecution."

Shelton also announced that he is contributing $1,000 to a reward fund for the apprehension and conviction of persons who dynamited four Negro homes in Charlotte, N.C., last month.

Shelton told newsmen that his organization is continuing to increase its membership. And he called President Johnson "the best recruiter we have."

Veto of Agency Shop Bill Gets Top Mail Reply

MADISON (AP)— The agency shop bill, vetoed Wednesday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles, provoked more mail than any other measure approved by the Legislature, Arvic Sather, legal counsel to the governor, said Thursday.

Some 800 to 1,000 letters and post cards were received, Sather said, with nine out of 10 of them favoring the measure. Sather said many of those who wrote identified themselves as members of a public employe union.

The bill would have allowed public employe unions to enter into agreements with local governmental bodies requiring nonunion members to pay union dues and initiation fees if their jobs were covered by the union contract.

Gemini Fuel Cell OK'd by Officials

rier, the best landing accuracy yet in the Gemini program.

Gemini 6 was in space slightly less than 26 hours. For more than five hours, the two space ships sailed together around the world at distances from six to 200 feet.

While the world poured plaudits on the great adventure, the men in mission control center here turned attention to an amber warning light that indicated high pressure in the one good fuel cell remaining in the capsule.

The spacecraft has two fuel cells which combine liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen to produce electricity to run the spacecraft systems.

A warning light indicated the first day of the flight that pressures were not uniform in one of the cells, and the astronauts and ground technicians wrestled throughout the flight to determine what was wrong.

Shut Down

Finally, the cell was shut down when two of its three stacks went bad. The remaining system was sufficient for power needs.

Thursday, after Schirra and Stafford were safely on the carrier, the light for Gemini 7's second cell came on.

Borman seemed more concerned than flight controllers when he said after the light went out and then came back on:

"If this pressure doesn't drop by morning, I'm gonna hate to see that carrier go by tomorrow."

He referred to the fact that if Gemini 7 had to be brought back early, the best chance of landing near the carrier would be to fire the retrorockets at 8:22 a.m. for a splashdown 37 minutes later.

Emergency Landing

If trouble developed later in the day, an emergency landing might have to be made in a secondary recovery area in the eastern Atlantic or in the Pacific.

Asked why he was more concerned about the second light than he was the first, Borman answered.

"This time is the first time it has recurred like this. The other times it has gone out."

Flight director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. said ground monitors indicated the cell was producing desired power and "all indications are that the flight will continue as scheduled."

In case they had to make an early landing, Borman and Lovell put their spacesuits back on and stowed all loose objects Thursday night.

If both cells failed, batteries aboard the craft would provide power for 13 hours and provide ample time for the astronauts to make an emergency landing.

Near Wasp

If at all possible, officials want Gemini 7 to set down near the Wasp, which has a team of medical experts aboard to begin immediate analysis of whether the astronauts suffered any ill effects from their record voyage in space.

They reported they were "a little beat" after their long stay in orbit.

Just before Gemini 6 started its re-entry Thursday, Lovell radioed Schirra:

"Want to make a wager on who comes closest?"

"It's a bet," replied Schirra.

The Gemini 6 astronauts were reported in excellent physical shape after their relatively brief excursion into space.

Ideal Rendezvous

Dr. Howard Minners, a flight surgeon, said they showed little change from their preflight conditions, with the exception of rises in heart rate and blood pressure and slight loss of weight.

Discussing the rendezvous, Schirra said:

"It was ideal. We had no problem whatsoever."

They began dictating the story to a tape recorder soon after they were aboard the carrier.

The astronauts promised "some fairly spectacular photographs" from their flight, including motion pictures of Gemini 7 tumbling in space as it circled the globe.

Farm Bureau Angered by Wheat Control

Sale of Surplus Is Called Device To Depress Income

CHICAGO (AP) — A Department of Agriculture move to sell government wheat to halt price advances has been characterized by the American Farm Bureau Federation as a device to depress farm income with price controls.

The Farm Bureau, in a resolution adopted Thursday at its annual convention, said the action was aimed at wrecking and controlling prices of wheat now being sold by farmers.

"It is now abundantly clear," the resolution said, "that it is the policy of the secretary of agriculture to use price supports in production control programs to depress and control market prices and thus lower prices received by farmers."

Prevent Price Rise

The Agriculture Department said expanded wheat sales was needed to prevent possible increases in prices of flour and bread.

The federation adjourned the four-day convention Thursday after delegates voted to continue opposition to federal farm controls.

Earlier at the convention, Charles B. Shuman of Sullivan, Ill., was re-elected president for another two-year term.

At a final session, some delegates criticized activities of certain church leaders and religious organizations for their social and economic policies, particularly among farm workers in California and in the Southeast.

Boggs Says War Won't Hike Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax increase because of the Viet Nam war is not likely soon, but if one should be found necessary, it would probably be an excess profits or excise levy, Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., says.

Boggs is the House Democratic whip—assistant majority leader—and a member of the tax writing Ways and Means Committee. Recently returned from a tour of Viet Nam and other Far East and Pacific areas, he gave his views at a news conference.

He said he expects issues connected with the struggle in Southeast Asia to occupy much more of the attention of Congress at the session opening Jan. 10 than they did in the past session. When asked about report of a tax increase, he said, "I don't expect it, but I certainly think it is possible."

Boggs said he does not look for any reduction in spending on domestic programs below last year's levels, "but I would not expect any big new authorizations."

Saigon Terrorism Continues As VC Marks Anniversary

taken against the terrorist campaign, but he added:

"You simply cannot search every Vietnamese in Saigon."

All streets around key military installations and U.S. billets in the city of more than 1.4 million have been closed to nonessential traffic. But officials expect the terrorism wave to continue well into the Christmas season.

Guard Shot

Terrorists struck twice Thursday night. A traffic policeman and four Vietnamese civilians were injured by a Viet Cong grenade, and a Vietnamese police guard was shot in the stomach.

Police found a flag of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political command, in a street with a bomb hidden underneath. The bomb failed to go off.

In Washington, the Johnson administration indicated it might accept the Viet Cong's offer of a 12-hour Christmas truce. Administration sources said there will be a lull of some kind in Allied war activity if the Communists do not try for military advantage during the cease-fire.

February Lull

In a lull last February during the Vietnamese lunar new year celebrations, the Viet Cong stealthily moved in supplies and reinforcements, then killed eight American servicemen, wounded 62 and destroyed several helicopters in an attack at Pleiku. President Johnson immediately ordered the start of the air war against North Viet Nam.

Despite the daily terrorism and the expansion of the fighting, U.S. losses in the Vietnamese fighting were reported lower than anticipated by Defense Department officials Thursday in Washington.

The Pentagon reported that as of last Monday 1,496 Americans had been killed in Viet Nam since January 1961. Of these, 1,241 fell this year and most since midsummer.

Defenses Tested

U.S. Air Force officials in Saigon said the Communist MIG jets have been quietly testing American air defenses in Viet Nam and those of U.S. 7th Fleet ships in the South China Sea.

They said the prowling MIGs keep far enough away to avoid interception by U.S. jets and missiles. But the officials did not rule out the possibility of a Communist strike in the future. U.S. warplanes have been virtually unopposed by enemy aircraft over North Viet Nam, although ground fire has been heavy.

The officials indicated some concern that the Communist planes, although outdated by U.S. standards, might try a desperation stab at the big air base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, or at the 7th Fleet off Viet Nam, which includes the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise.

12 Cardinals May Be Created by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reports circulated at the Vatican today that Pope Paul VI will announce before Christmas a consistory to create 12 new cardinals, probably on Feb. 5.

The reports were unofficial, but persistent, and said the announcement would be made by the Pope on Dec. 23 when he receives the Christmas greetings of cardinals in Rome.

Chicago Negro Leader Forming Political Force

Rev. King Missionary Seeks Issues That Will Hold Voters

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — Ignored by Chicago's white rulers, a tough, young Mississippi Negro sporting a yarmulke (Jewish prayer cap) as his trademark is quietly building a revolution in this city's West Side Negro ghetto.

He is the Rev. James Bevel, the most revolutionary leader in Dr. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and now King's missionary in Chicago. His mission: to organize the unhappy black masses into a political force.

The fact that a Southern Negro militant is enjoying early success here reveals the growing gap between the races in Chicago. But Bevel's techniques of agitation are apt to widen the gap. Indeed, Bevel's presence in Chicago raises the question whether SCLC tactics that brought Jim Crow to its knees in the South can cope with the deepening crisis of the Northern Negro.

Actually, King is having second thoughts about spreading SCLC so thin. His more cautious advisers tell him he should stay out of the North. King's current fund appeal stresses SCLC's Southern emphasis. Nevertheless, Bevel—who sometimes operates independently of King—is in Chicago, apparently to stay.

King's SCLC was invited into Chicago to rescue local leaders. An attempted boycott of State Street merchants last Christmas flopped. This year, protest marches against de facto segregation organized by civil rights leader Albert Raby picked up only a few stragglers.

Raby's Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO) was in deep trouble over the failure of the marches. After much internal debate, it asked Dr. King for help. Through his personal charisma, King led a successful march on City Hall—pulling CCCO out of the hole.

Then interested in expanding his influence northward, King assigned Bevel here. But Bevel was hardly content to station himself on the South Side as Al Raby's assistant. He set out on his own for the West Side wasteland.

For weeks Bevel has been conducting quiet meetings of ghetto Negroes. Matured since his days as King's firebrand in 1963 Birmingham demonstrations, Bevel cautions against demonstrations without a specific goal. Protest, he insists, must be geared to a purpose.

Bevel's purpose is not the indistinct issue of de facto school segregation, the main concern of Chicago Negro leaders. Nor has he become concerned with the in-fighting between Mayor Richard J. Daley and Negro militants over federal anti-poverty funds.

Rather, Bevel is probing for bread-and-butter issues that fit slum Negroes. He is now organizing "unions" of public welfare recipients, of slum dwellers, of public housing recipients. Their function: protest and pressure.

Until now the impetus for the Negro protest movement in Chicago has come from the middle class. Lower income classes have been welded tight to Mayor Daley's machine with patronage. Bevel is trying to change that.

Challenges Daley

His object is clear: political action. It's doubtful that comedian Dick Gregory can hurdle tough election laws to get on the ballot as an independent mayoral candidate against Daley in 1967. But Bevel is already organizing to challenge the Daley machine's candidates for the state legislature in 1966.

That 1966 campaign would be impossible if either of the two political parties were now seriously wooing the city's Negroes. Although Daley has made slow reforms, he still condones "plantation politics" on the West Side—control of the regular party organization in all-Negro West Side wards by Irish, Jewish, and Italian party chieftains, remnants of the days when the West Side was white.

As for the Republicans, instead of capitalizing on the Democratic unpopularity (as in New York and Philadelphia), they still hope to ride the white backlash. Some Republican leaders court absolute disaster by talking of running School Superintendent Ben Willis, hated symbol to Chicago Negroes of de facto segregation, for mayor in 1967.

TV Coverage of Gemini

The television coverage of the Gemini 6-7 space mission has been almost as spectacular as the twin flights themselves.

Viewers were astonished Wednesday at how long the TV cameras could follow the launch of Gemini 6, including the burning out of the first stage of the Titan 2 rocket and the separation of the first and second stages. This was accomplished with a new camera lens developed by a scientist at Boston University and therefore called a BU Scope. This was not the first time it was used on a launch, but the high cloud cover permitted visual contact with the spacecraft for a much longer period than at any other time.

Another first was live coverage from the Carrier Wasp, with the TV signals being relayed from the Wasp to networks in the United States via the Earlybird satellite, some of it in color. Unfortunately Gemini 6 did not splash down close enough to the Wasp for the cameras to pick it up, and the fast run of the Wasp to the site of the landing interfered for a time with the TV signal, but the shots of the pick-up and the landing of Astronauts Schirra and Stafford on the deck of the carrier were most satisfying to viewers who always sweat out the safe return of the spacemen.

The perfecting of TV techniques has matched the swift progress of our space program. Live signals from a spacecraft itself would seem to be within the realm of possibility in the not too distant future, in which all of us could share the wonders of space flight.

Appleton From Now to 1971

The Post-Crescent recently completed a frank, explanatory series on the six-year capital improvement program proposed as a guideline for the City of Appleton, and it was only natural that the $32 million price tag made the reading just that much more provocative.

Undoubtedly, first reaction of some citizens was that of shock. Others took the time to review the detailed accounts and realized the city administration and Appleton taxpayer, hand-in-hand, have a big assignment between now and 1971.

Major expenditures for schools, new water supply system, continuing street and sewer construction, municipal buildings, downtown reconstruction and possible urban renewal must be recognized as expenditures that cannot be avoided in a growing and progressive city.

While some citizens resent community growth and change being forced upon them due to the times in which we live, it must be recognized that problems brought about by progress do presently exist and there will be more within a few years.

So, the rational reaction at this point is to develop a sound capital improvement schedule and an equally sound plan for financing the huge tasks ahead.

Consultants have prescribed a program for the next six years which will allow Appleton to expand in an orderly fashion without confrontation with fiscal chaos. There are times when it is necessary to plan to meet the problem before it is with you, which represents money saved in the long run.

The proposed plan calls for some gradual tax rate increases, issuance of revenue bonds, some short-term borrowing, floating of general obligation bonds and taking advantage of federal grants that might be available for urban renewal and replacing the city's water supply.

A timetable specifies the years in which projects should be undertaken and the best method for financing them. Planned projects and planned financing is obviously a much better approach than floating bond issues based on helter-skelter political pressures or last-minute government response to immediate needs.

No one can say with infallibility what the remaining years of the decade hold in store for Appleton. Thus, there must be reliance on the best information and facts available, prepared by experts whose life work is the planning and orderly development of cities.

Appleton's capital improvement plan deserves consideration of every citizen, keeping in mind that the plan is intended as an outline for the next six years. For any community to proceed without general agreement on a major plan would indeed be foolhardy.

Bingo Now Legal — In a Tavern

The news that one type of bingo can now legally be played in a tavern is bound to arouse more controversy over a subject that has plagued Wisconsin citizens for a long time. Somehow, a lot of people are bound to feel that there is something wrong with a law which permits the playing of bingo in a tavern but not in a church hall.

The whole matter is not quite that simple. Assistant Attorney General John Bowers, in giving his opinion that the "blackout bingo" as played in a Waukesha County tavern is legal, specified that there is no element of consideration. The cards are provided free to customers. And this is merely an extension of similar games sponsored by stores which purchase the cards from an out of state company which also furnishes the cash prizes.

The only thing the Wisconsin Constitution says on the whole matter is that the legislature shall not authorize a lottery. The State Supreme Court, in an advisory opinion, decided that bingo or similar games of chance are not lotteries as long as their is no consideration. That was the substance of the amendment to the so-called "lottery law" which went into effect last July. Such games are still prohibited if the player is required to pay for the right to play.

The confusion once again indicates the difficulty of trying to legislate in the field of morality. We don't know what the original framers of Wisconsin's Constitution may have been worrying about when they put in the prohibition against a legislated lottery. It may have been that they didn't want one run by the state. But obviously there is something off base when it is illegal to charge a nickel a card with a modest prize in order to raise money for a church hall or a fraternal charity and perfectly legal to spend much more money on alcohol in a tavern while playing the game for free. Whatever the intent of the Constitution framers or this year's legislature or the Wisconsin voters in the referendum, it certainly was not this.

The new interpretation of what a lottery is and is not has really opened up a new field for business. The cards are sold to the businesses — taverns or supermarkets or other outlets — which are then able to encourage customers with the lure of a bingo game and cash prizes. There is nothing necessarily suspect about such businesses. What is always dangerous is whether or how soon the racketeers, who follow the gambling money enthusiastically, are going to be able to take over.

As everyone knows, football pools exist in thousands of business offices throughout the state despite the fact that they are absolutely illegal. When a tavern owner flagrantly ignores the law, there are a few arrests made in some counties. Taking part in a football pool is simply not considered evil by most people in Wisconsin and unless it is, halting the practice is virtually impossible.

We don't want in Wisconsin the rackets or hoodlums which accompany wide open gambling. But somehow the present law needs some changing too.

American Fenians in Trouble

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 16, 1865.

Messrs. John O'Mahony, president, and B. Doran Killian treasurer, respectively, of the American Fenian Brotherhood, have been deposed from office by the senate of that organization.

Mr. W. R. Roberts, on Saturday last, was inaugurated president. A circular of advice has been sent out to every circle in the Union. Great discontent is said to prevail among the Brotherhood, relative to the extravagance heretofore indulged in by its chief officials. The Fenian circles in New York have still further complicated the imbroglio by their repudiation of the action and authority of the senate, and their thorough endorsement of Col. O'Mahony.

Later — Fenian imbroglio still continues. Col. O'Mahony has received assurances from circles in Boston, Brooklyn, New York and Philadelphia, and is constantly in receipt of letters advising that he stand firm awaiting the action of the approaching congress of the Brotherhood.

On the contrary, the senate is confident of sustaining the charges laid against Messrs. O'Mahony and Killian, and several states have pledged an effective allegiance to the new administration.

It appears that John Mitchell received $76,000 of the Brotherhood funds for European distribution. Stephens, the head centre of Ireland, is daily expected in New York.

In the Fenian troubles, Col. O'Mahony is sustained in the East, while the west endorses the course of the senate.

Still later — The Fenian trouble still remains unsettled. Ex-President O'Mahony Monday ordered out of headquarters a senatorial committee, appointed to wait upon him and request the delivery of the Brotherhood's books.

In his inaugural address, President Roberts says the organization must win distinction by efforts other than elocutionary.

U.S. Troop Actions in Viet Nam Violate Fundamentals of Strategy

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Our Viet Nam peace demonstrators do a profound service to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in his domination of the strategy in the horrible war.

Taylor

Their whoopla serves to solidify the country's conviction that we must stay there, summarized so well by President Johnson's Aug. 5, 1964, statement: "Aggression unchallenged is aggression unleashed." But their demonstrations also distract us from the blunder-ridden way we are fighting the war itself.

We're told we're doing better, and we are. We should do better when our troops are increased from 1,100 to 185,000 who are the cream of the crop.

Elite Troops There

The 1st Infantry Division ("Big Red") now committed to Viet Nam is a part of the Army's hard-core central reserve, based at Ft. Riley, Kansas. The Marine Corps' elite regiments are there, along with the absolute cream of the U. S. Navy and Air Force. Even our vast Strategic Air Force, not designed for such missions, is employed nearly around the clock.

As long as June 21, 1963, Defense Secretary McNamara announced that "the Defense Department is rescreening all personnel to be sure only the best men are sent to South Viet Nam." Well, they're there, God bless them — but what of the strategy they're supposed to carry out?

Courageously bucking the Defense Department censors to get his facts out, able correspondent Jim Lucas writes of the airborne 1st Cavalry Division.

It was brought to Viet Nam at staggering expense. Lucas reports that at the Plei Me siege attack its units were supported in advance by swarms of helicopters and planes that flew in tents, cots and hot chow and even generators and electric lights — "strange appurtenances with which to prepare a surprise ambush against the Viet Cong."

Promptly, there were no Viet Cong there. For the basic Viet Cong tactic (need we be told?) is to break off contact whenever superior forces are committed, and go away.

Thus our great forces are constantly summoned like a fire engine or dispatched like a lifeboat to the scene of some new disaster. And this leaves us moving in a mass from one place to another without destroying the enemy forces in being.

MUST DESTROY ENEMY

Yet it's universally agreed as the first principle of war there's no such thing as a sound strategy which does not destroy the enemy forces in being.

As long ago as May 14 retired Marine Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Pullar, an expert in Haitian, Nicaraguan and Philippine guerrilla warfare and one of the militry's most decorated heroes, wrote an anguished letter to the Defense Department which reverted to fundamentals and began: "I am ashamed. . ." The fundamentals included:

First, a full blockade by our Navy that would halt most incoming arms shipments from Communist countries. It still isn't being done. The shipments actually halted are ours — by the jams and nearly incredible delays in our own ports.

Second, attack the Vietnamese seacoast with our landing craft (a special U. S. talent) and then destroy the enemy forces by marching back and forth, but always upward, across Viet Nam's narrow boundaries. This still is not being done.

Third, appoint a qualified American in command of all forces — including the Vietnamese. Yet to this day there is no one man in command in Viet Nam. And Secretary McNamara is a genius in organizational fundamentals?

RECALL WORLD WAR II

He should read what the world's military leaders agree would have happened if we had not had a supreme commander of all the forces in Europe in World War II.

In fact, this weakness alone is so glaring that you wonder if hard-pressed Mr. McNamara hasn't reached that tragic point of intoxication with absolute power at which a man has confidence in nobody but himself.

Our entire nation is fully familiar with the enormous difficulties where we are fighting. But the Administration must also have known those awful difficulties when it staged its complete about-face and decided to fight another (after Korea) land war in Southeast Asia.

The issue is not our anti-Communist policy which the "peace" paraders protest. The horrible wrongness, instead, is that we do not seem to know how to conduct the war itself. Mr. McNamara should resign.

Potomac Fever — by Jack Wilson

One congressman says the Viet Nam war will cost $14 billion this year. And that doesn't include the cost of cleaning up after the demonstrations against it.

Democrats now have an IBM computer in headquarters to plan campaign strategy. It costs $5,000 a month—but it's cheaper than long distance calls to Johnson City.

Carley Having Trouble Finding Early Season Subjects for Campaign

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The seductive appeal of the constitutional convention idea for many of the liberal politicians of Wisconsin continues as one of the mildly surprising aspects of local political events.

Wyngaard

Thus David Carley, the declared candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, has keynoted his campaign work thus far more directly on the constitutional convention objective than almost any other question he has discussed.

The Carley discussion, moreover, is fairly representative of the ambiguous terms in which the convention idea has frequently been argued. On the one hand, he acknowledges that the legislature has given preliminary approval to some of the constitutional reforms he and others of like mind feel are urgently needed. On the other, he expresses a conviction that thoroughgoing reform cannot be hoped for through the avenue of legislation in Madison.

There is involved here, of course, a direct attack upon the legislature as a representative voice of the people of Wisconsin. Mr. Carley assumes that those notions about constitutional change that he wants represent the wishes of the popular majority. But there is no such proof available in Wisconsin.

Indeed, the sideliner with a normal regard for the processes of representative government and their integrity may be justified in observing that the composite view of the legislature comes considerably closer to the popular will than does the offhanded proposal of a man who has not yet been elected to office, and whose prospects in his declared candidacy next year are far from certain.

FAMILIAR ECHOES

There are only a handful of supposedly needed reforms that turn up in the discussions about the wisdom of summoning a special convention for a total revision of the state's fundamental law. They include repeal of the county uniformity clause, a broadening of the internal improvements caluse and modification of the long-term debt rules. As it happens, this chronicler believes there is merit in these propositions. Yet it would be an inexcusable vanity to assume that such a personal view is also the wish of a majority of the inhabitants of the state in the face of contrary evidence as produced by legislative action or lack of action during the plentiful opportunities that have prevailed.

Mr. Carley puts some frosting on the cake when he suggests yet other changes that ought to be achieved through a convention and which he admits are probably unattainable otherwise. He wants longer terms for all state elected officials, and not just governor and lieutenant governor, as the legislature has indicated it may be willing to support. In a truly novel and original proposition, he complains that the "home rule" rights of Wisconsin cities ought to be strengthened by constitutional law, although others might suppose that if this was a genuine issue the cities would have spoken out on it long since.

FUEL NEEDS

One suspects that Mr. Carley's frequent discussion of the constitutional convention question, in the absence of any persuasive proof that the political community is responding, relates to the early bird candidate's need for a flow of speech material rather than to serious conviction. The subject has a respectable academic ring. It is reasonably noncontroversial. It may attract some attention from the newspapers which is the purpose of the preseason campaign utterance.

Several years ago I asked another prominent politician about the reasons why he dispatched to this desk two or three times a week identical publicity releases. He confided that he had retained a public stenographic service to reproduce such press statements according to a prearranged schedule. He intended to continue the practice, he said with commendable candor, as long as the editors of the Wisconsin papers and other media continued to accept them, however wearisomely repetitive they sounded even to his own ears.

Strictly Personal

Finding Truth Doesn't Always Make Us Free

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Visiting an Eastern city recently, I had lunch with an old friend, who confessed that his marriage was not going well. "In fact," he said, "I suspect that my wife is having an affair with someone I know."

Harris

I muttered a few noncommittal words — after all, what can one say in such a situation? — and then he went on to ask me, "Do you think I ought to have her followed and find out if my suspicions are true or not?"

"Suppose you find out they're true?" I replied. "Then what are you prepared to do?"

"That's just it," he said. "I wouldn't know what to do. I don't want to break up the family and leave the children. And while our marriage isn't very good, it's as tolerable as most, I suppose."

"Then my advice to you," I said, "is to forget the whole thing — suspicions and all. Try to make the best of things, and don't look for 'the truth' when you're not ready to do anything about it."

Twenty years ago, I wouldn't have given this advice. I would have suggested that he definitely find out if she were behaving improperly. But experience has taught me that it does no good — and often does actual harm — to find out things before we are prepared to cope with them.

The Bible tells us that we shall know the truth, and the truth shall make us free. But the kind of truth the Bible refers to is not about other people; it is about ourselves. What frees us is a deep existential understanding of our own nature, its needs and its limitations.

This man must first of all try to understand what the relationship means to him, what he is finding in it, or not giving to it, or how much responsibility he has assumed toward it. He must try to learn, in short how much illicit self-love is commingled with object-love.

When he learns this — if he ever does — then the "truth" about his wife's infidelity won't seem so important to know. That will not become the determining factor in any decision he makes; he will view that as a consequence, as a symptom, of a poor marital relationship, and not as the "cause" of any estrangement.

Just as it is dangerous to hand a child a gun before his judgment and emotions are disciplined enough to handle firearms, so it is dangerous to arm ourselves with knowledge that we cannot handle — especially if, as is this case, he would not know what to do with the information, anyway. Intelligence keeps both eyes open, and wants to know; but wisdom; which is rare and more necessary, often keeps its eyes half-closed and averts its head from sights it can neither accept nor reject.

Work, Stay Feminine, Cuban Women Told

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuban women are being asked to emancipate themselves from domestic drudgery and work in factories.

"This, of course, should be accomplished without the loss of femininity," the secretary of education for the Cuban Workers Confederation told a labor conference recently.

"The Revolution needs many women in all kinds of factory work," said Maria de los Angeles Peria.

'Hives' Accompanying Menstruation Curable

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have suffered for several years from a condition which has been called arthritis by some doctors, while others disagree.

Just before and during the monthly period, a small, red, very sensitive spot, and swelling develop. It can be in the ankles, knees, base of the spine, jaw, in fact at one time or another in almost any area of the body. Can you throw any light on this? — M. H.

Perhaps. More data would have to be known to attempt to diagnose such a problem. However, I, too, doubt that it is arthritis. If it were, we would expect the soreness to occur in joints which would also be troublesome between periods.

Here is a suggeston which comes strongly to mind on the basis of your letter. Some women have a form of urticaria which coincides with the monthly period.

Strictly speaking, urticaria means hives, and the hives in this case may not be quite what you ordinarily think of as being meant by that term. There are scattered, red, tender, raised blotches.

Other women develo p a herpes, or "shingles-type" of skin disorder at this time. There is pain, and along with it the formation of blebs or small blisters, just as occurs with shingles. This tends to occur in the same spot, however.

Keep in mind that I am not undertaking to say positively that this is your trouble. Rather I'm suggesting a possible approach.

Such attacks of urticaria can sometimes be prevented or minimized by taking an antihistamine medication at the onset, and you might at least give this a try, under the supervsion of your physician, of course. This type of treatment has been helpful for a good many women who had assumed that this kind of trouble was something they "just had to suffer with."

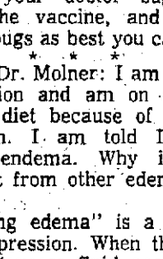
Dear Dr. Molner: Two years ago after a flu shot I had quite a reaction for about 24 hours, and could hardly get my breath for a few hours. The doctor will not give me any more flu shots. I asked him again last year and he said absolutely not. Has there been any change in the method of giving these shots so that the few of us who are allergic to them can now have this protection? I am a secretary in a university and am thoroughly exposed to any "bugs" constantly. — E. M.

A few people are allergic to almost anything, and this includes materials in vaccines.



Dr. Molner

This is one reason why doctors think it makes sense to give such shots individually instead of depending on "community clinics" and such. Somebody has to watch for the exceptional case. Like you.

When polio vaccine first came along, penicillin was used as a preservative — and some people are sensitive to minute amounts of penicillin. Therefore other preservatives were substituted so more people could have polio vaccine without suffering reactions.

The virus used in making flu vaccine is grown in egg embryos. Some people are highly sensitive to egg. Maybe we can find something other than egg embryos, and thus can prevent reactons like yours. It is being worked on. But for the moment, do as your doctor suggests. Avoid the vaccine, and avoid the flu bugs as best you can.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am taking medication and am on a low-sodium diet because of water-retention. I am told I have pitting endema. Why is this different from other edema? — E. T.

"Pitting edema" is a redundant expression. When there is edema (excess fluid accumulation in the tissues) pressure with the fingers will leave a temporary indentation or "pitting." This can occur regardless of the cause of the edema. In other words, any case of edema can be called "pitting edema."

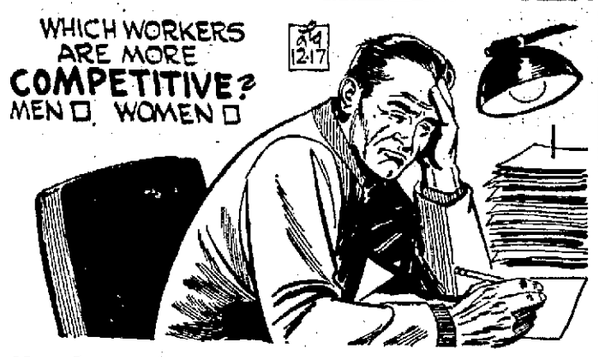
Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.



Men. Some women want to prove they are as good as men and are, at times, highly competitive. But women generally are more motivated by the intrinsic satisfactions of the job, their work place and their relationships with fellow employees than by trying to get ahead. There is good psychiatric evidence that most women are not interested in rivalling their colleagues, or in getting the best of men.

Agressive people should be slapped down!

True —— False ——

False, that won't solve the problem. Dr. John Dollard and a group of other scientists at Yale university found that aggressive people are usually frustrated. They need, not so much to be slapped down, as to have their frustrations corrected. In the meantime, we may have to defend ourselves from pushy people. But we won't solve the problem until we see that "pushiness" is the symptom of a personality "disease" that should be understood and treated, as we would a physical disorder. For further proof of this statement, get the facts from reading the frank booklet, "When Mental Illness Strikes Your Family." A copy's yours for 25 cents and your name and address (including ZIP Code) sent to "Let's Explore Your Mind," in care of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis., 54910. Call Policeman Before Arguing With Spaniard

Barman Frequently Charges 'Insult to State' to Collect Bill

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID, Spain (AP) — If you feel impelled to argue about a bar bill in Spain, you'd better call a policeman first.

The alternative may be the threat of up to nine years in prison for insulting the Spanish chief of state.

That is the advice of diplomats who over the past few years have been called more than a dozen times to come to the aid of countrymen who argued prices with Spanish bartenders — and ended up in jail.

Invariably the charge against those foreigners — some of whom have spent six months or more in jail awaiting trial — is that they slandered Generalissimo Francisco Franco or dishonored Spain in the heat of a discussion about the proper bill for brandy or champagne.

Complaining Witness

Bartenders frequently are the complaining witnesses.

Usually such a witness describes fluently in Spanish the words used for such slander, but displays little knowledge of the English, German, Swedish or other foreign tongue used by the prisoner.

"In some cases it appears the bartenders simply dreamed up the charges in an effort to collect a contested — and often excessive — charge for a night's drinking," said a European diplomat.

Usually the public prosecutor asks for conviction and nine years' imprisonment in insult cases.

Suspended Sentence

The court ordinarily whittles this down to from six months to a year suspended imprisonment, and frequently the defendant is free to walk out and catch the first plane home.

But the period of waiting in a Spanish jail can be unpleasant.

"If you disagree with your bar bill tell the barman to call a policeman and say nothing more," one diplomat urged.

"Then, when the officer comes, explain the situation to him if you know enough Spanish. If you don't, ask him for an interpreter — or keep your mouth shut."

Hand it to Hotpoint

Model — LW-795

the first machine that does all your hand washing — even cashmere sweaters

How did we do it? Instead of simply one, two, three, four or even six standard wash speed selections, now you can dial exactly the agitation and spin speed you want. You completely control agitation and spin speed to duplicate the gentle safe washing action of your own hands. The results are simply beautiful. Tests on virtually every known natural and synthetic hand-washable fabric have conclusively demonstrated that controlled Hotpoint machine washing is as safe, gentle and even more thorough than hand washing. Whether it's slacks, skirts, lingerie, sweaters, Hotpoint "hand washes" them to perfection. Then pop them in your Hotpoint Dryer and they come out wrinkle-free and ready to wear.

Important as it is, "hand washing" is only one of many Hotpoint features you'll appreciate. It can handle big 16-pound loads. There are an infinite number of water level selections, too, a bleach and rinse dispenser, lint filter, fountain filter washing action, and the Hotpoint washer is porcelain finished inside and out. From the grimiest heavy work clothes to a delicate cashmere sweater . . . HAND IT TO HOTPOINT.

Singing Doctors Kid Their Own Profession

Organized for Banquet Program, Now Group's Record Sales Aid 42 Students

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Hey, you who rock with only the latest beat on records! Try matching up the album "Borborygmi" with the right recording group!

No, not the Surfers. Or the Beatles. Or the Singing Nuns.

Here's a hint: "Borborygmi" means "noises from the intestinal tract."

Give up?

30,000 Albums

It's the "Singing Doctors," and they've sold 30,000 sets of their three albums of parodies kidding the life and work of the medical profession. Their other albums are "Placenta Preview" and "Medic Emetics."

Other numbers include "Pentothal is a Ball," "We'll Give Stamps," and "Halitosis Beats No Breath at All."

Dr. James T. Brown, a surgeon, organized the group out of a simple necessity — he was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for the Greene County Medical Society's annual installation banquet and was given no money.

Bunch of Hams

"As a last resort, I searched around for five more extroverts and wrote a half-dozen parodies," he said. "We're just a bunch of hams who border on being tone deaf."

The other doctors are Charles E. Lockhart, Don F. Gose and F. T. H'Doubler Jr., surgeons; Harold H. Lurie, an internist, and Fred C. Collier, a pathologist.

The doctors sing in surgical gowns, hillbilly get-ups and hula skirts.

The doctors turned their record business over to the Greene County Medical Society at Springfield, and, as a result, 42 students are studying medicine at Midwestern schools on grants and loans from the society's scholarship foundation. It gets all its money from the records.

No Bounty Money For Bobcat Hunters

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Bobcat bounty hunters, who have received an average of $6,500 from New Hampshire in recent years, are out of luck — there's no money available for the next two years. The 1965 legislature cut the bounty from $20 to $15, but it didn't allocate any funds for payment.

Force High Schools To Improve Programs

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A State Education Department official says tougher entrance requirements by the University of Kentucky will force 35 per cent of Kentucky's 427 high schools to improve their programs.

Singing Parodies on the life and work of their own medical profession, these six doctors from the Springfield, Mo., area have catapulted to national prominence. They organized for a spoofing program for a county medical society program, but since then have sold more than 30,000 albums of their "Medical Hit Parade." The proceeds from their recordings provide scholarships for 42 medical students at Midwestern schools. The songsters are Harold Lurie, left front, James Brown and Fred Collier; Charles Lockhart, in back at left, F. T. H'Doubler Jr. and Don Gose. (AP Wire-Photo)

Old Batman Movies Fun

Matinee Serials Returning, Some Call Them 'Pop Art'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — To some, it may be a pop art movie. To others it's a look at childhood happiness. But for most patrons, watching more than four hours of old Batman motion picture serials is just plain fun.

Many movie theaters around the country, including one in Philadelphia, are reviving the bygone matinee serials, the kind with the cliff-hanging ending on each sequence so that you'd have to come back next Saturday. But instead of running week by week, now they're spliced together and run in a single showing.

Most of Philadelphia's patrons are college students. To them, the period costumes, the heavy acting and propaganda against the Japanese — at war with the United States when the serial was made — are good for laughs.

Good Vs. Evil

One young woman was laughing as she emerged from the theater. "Those ears of his. They're hysterical. And those leotards he wears. There's a hole in the knee."

Jol Levine of Woodmere, N.Y., a student at the University of Pennsylvania, analyzed it this way: "Batman represents a simplified existence. Seeing these films takes us back to simpler time when life was merely a battle between good and evil.

"Everything is much more complex now. But after four hours of Batman serials you can begin to see things through the eyes of Batman. You're a changed person, for a while anyway."

Norris Wolf, of Great Neck, N.Y., another Penn student, said Batman is "great pop art. He's super in. He epitomizes super camp."

Camp is regarded as something so bizarre, or in bad taste, that it's in — the thing to see or do.

One man in his late 30s, though, said he had a more practical reason for going to the movies: "I saw some of the episodes when I was a kid and I want to see the rest of them."

$2,000 in American Gold Pieces Is Found

COLUMBIA, Tenn. (AP) — A treasure in $10 and $20 American gold pieces was discovered here as county officials prepared to auction off the belongings of a 104-year-old woman who died in October.

Officials said the coins had a face value of $2,000. They tumbled out when a worker opened a small door on a dresser belonging to the late Elizabeth Porter.

Magoo Has Top Scrooge Show Repeat

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 — Channel 5 — Mr. Magoo's Christmas Carol is back for its fourth visit, and again it's highly recommended for tykes of all ages. Jule Styne and Bob Merrill have written six tuneful songs ("Winter Was Warm" and "When You're Alone" are particularly good) for this musical cartoon version of the Dickens classic. The voices are all good, with a particular nod to Joan Gardner as Tiny Tim. There is imaginative art work in the creation of the ghosts — Christmas Present looks like a pink-robed Santa, Christmas Past is Peter Pan-ish and Christmas Yet to Come a faceless, red-robed wraith with bony hands. (Color-R)

6:30-7:30 — Channels 2-7-12 — "Night of the Howling Light" on Wild Wild West is a slick, outrageous adventure involving a lot of slick, outrageous actors posing as Indians. One is Scott Marlowe playing a college-educated brave who now wants to blackmail Uncle Sam.

7:30-8 — Channels 2-7-12 — There is some humor in Hogan's Heroes as Kommandant Klink and General Burkhalter go berserk when they are made to believe there is oil under Stalag 13. Of course, it's just a ruse — Hogan's effort to thwart plans to close Stalag 13. (Color)

* * *

7:30-8:30 — Channels 4-5 — Sing Along with Mitch is back with its taped Christmas show first telecast in 1961. This is tuneful and colorful from start to finish with the bearded maestro, Mitch Miller, in top form. So are his singers, especially soloists Leslie Uggams, Diana Trask and Bill Ventura. Songs are all traditional, and there are plenty of youngsters on hand to ride in a big sleigh with Mitch. (Color-R)

* * *

8-8:30 — Channels 11-9 — "Invitation to Limbo" on Honey West is an honest-to-gosh sleeper. In this slim little mystery, you are supposed to believe that some tough engineers and scientists are begin hypnotized into stealing secrets from their bosses.

8:30-9 — Channels 11-6-9 — The Farmer's Daughter continues with its adventures of Katy as a housewife. Now that she is no longer a housekeeper, she has to find one for her happy brood. And guess what? She can't find a woman who will please her. (Color)

9-10 — Channels 2-12 — Trials of O'Brien has a mad, mad, maddening outing with "Leave It to Me." There's plenty of broad comedy playing in this one. Angela Lansbury, George Rose and Thayer David play the heirs in an unusual will. Unless two of them die nobody gets the loot of their late uncle.

9-10 — Channels 4-5-7 — "The Adriatic Express Affair" is a streamlined episode for The Man from U.N.C.L.E. with plenty of action. Solo and Illya are busy trying to find a virus culture (one that will tranquilize the world, so hopes Thrush) aboard a wacky train ride from Vienna to Venice. (Color)

9-10 — Channels 11-9 — The Jimmy Dean Show is still visiting California with songs that have more bark than bite. Plenty of guests are on hand — Kay Starr, Bobby Rydell, Cliff Arquette and Lassie.
